Capital punishment

By SUE MCDONALD
Eagle News Editor

Execution vs. life imprisonment. That's basically where the battle lines have been drawn in the war of words over capital punishment. And it is obvious from a random sampling of residents that there really isn't a solution to the dispute.

Of the 10 individuals we talked to recently, a vast majority — 80 percent — favored re-instatement of capital punishment, while the remaining group — 20 percent — took a firm stand against.

Of those supporting the death penalty, most view it as a potential deterrent to crime and a just penalty for murder. However, the opposition took the stand that murder still is murder, whether premeditated or committed by law.

Twenty-two-year-old Julie Gorgevich of Dearborn considered capital punishment a just penalty for the crime of murder.

"If they know how to commit crimes, then they should be punished for them," she said. "Why can't we be peaceful, so people can walk on the streets without being afraid."

"If they murder someone else then they (society) should take their life," she added. "That's fair."

Howard Selba, 62, of Westland, also favored capital punishment, citing the Biblical saying of "an eye for an eye." He blamed the courts for not levying stiff enough punishment and said stiffer penalties "would cut down on crime."

"I don't believe these men should run free after killing someone," he added. "I believe the Bible says an eye for an eye, that should apply to all murders."

"These people aren't punished severely enough."

Canton Township resident Bearnice Thompson spoke out against capital punishment, saying that if a criminal is sentenced to life in prison, "then he should stay there."

The 22-year-old went on to say: "I don't believe in killing other people. I think it's murder, since I believe taking another person's life is wrong."

Clayton Wight, a 70-year-old retiree, said he favored capital punishment "100 percent", but qualified his support by saying it should be for those persons convicted of premeditated murder.

On the question of whether capital punishment is cruel and inhumane, the Wayne resident responded: "It's not as cruel as him (that criminal) pulling a gun and shooting an old woman. What about the poor victim? That's cruel."

"If he takes a person's life, then he should be prepared to give his own in return."

Also favoring the return of capital punishment was 50-year-old Steve Burnhardt, who questioned why executed killer Gary Gilmore has been made into a national hero.

"Today, if you break in and kill someone, you get patted on the back by the courts," the Wayne resident said. "Anybody who kills someone, should be punished for that."

Mildred Barnier said that although "a lot of crimes with not be committed," if capital punishment returns, it really won't affect street crime.

"A lot of crimes would not be done, if they (the criminals) knew they were going to die for doing them," the 49-year-old Westlander added. "I really think there would be a lot less crime."

"Street crime wouldn't change, but maybe they'd leave the guns at home. The prisons are full of people

Artist's concept, 34th District Court house

An artist's concept of the new 34th District Courthouse to be built on four acres next to Romulus City Hall in the Civic Center Complex. Mayor James Stewart led a contingent of city officials which signed the federal forms requesting the $931,340 in public works funds already granted to erect the facility. Also on hand for the signing were Treasurer John Lewkowicz, Clerk Leonard Folmar, Judges James B. Stone and Henry Zaborowski, Grants Administrator Steve Bonczek, Gene Yagley, asst. grants administrator, Fire Chief John Wilhide and Leo M. Kalota, building authority chairman. Plans call for work to begin on the new court building within 90 days.

Rabbits killed again

By JIM BRADLEY
Roman Staff

Romulus animal control officers are still not sure who or what killed 28 prize show rabbits recently at 6812 Cogswell Rd.

Control officers Bradley Phillips and Pete Molnar were the first on the scene after the animals were slain but said there were so many footprints in the snow it was hard to find conclusive evidence.

"Neighbors and spectators had trampled the snow so much it was hard to get any definite information," Molnar said. Phillips added that all four hutches, each five feet high by five feet long by two deep and two-tier, were ripped open.

John Prowse, director of Romulus Animal Control, was on the scene shortly afterward and said: "In my four years in animal control I've never seen pens torn out like these were. It looked like someone had pried open the doors, broke the wood and cut the wire."

All the animal control officers agreed that it could have been a large dog, but said they believed there was "foul play" by individuals.

"It could have possibly been someone known by Mrs. Harmon, who rents the house," Prowse surmised. "Because she said she stayed up to watch the late movie on television and neither of her dogs barked at all."

Another theory advanced by the officers is that the killer might have

A total of 28 show rabbits were slain recently at 6812 Cogswell Rd. when someone or something ripped open the four hutches and killed the valuable pets. Shown with the dead

been an individual accompanied by a large dog. "Those hutches were strongly built and we're not ruling anything out at this point," Prowse said.

Recently, a black Mallard duck and a white goose were killed not far from where the 28 rabbits were slain. Nearly six weeks ago, a lamb, three chickens and seven rabbits were killed in Van Buren Township after their pens had been ripped open. In addition, several pigs were killed last June on Cogswell Road in Romulus.

So the investigation into the slaying of the 28 rabbits continues — and animal officers hope to conclusively prove who, or what, is the culprit.

Romulus seniors to get a tax rebate

Romulus residents are urged to look into the possibility of receiving property tax rebates from the state of Michigan.

"If you are a senior citizen, 65 years or older, a veteran, blind, paraplegic, quadriplegic or totally and permanently disabled, you may be missing out on a no-strings-attached property tax rebate from the state," Romulus Treasurer John Lewkowicz said this week.

"For those who qualify, the amount of rebate can go as high as $1,200 and is calculated by the amount of income against the amount of 1976 property taxes or the amount of 1976 rent paid," he said. Last year the city assessor's office filled out 266 forms which resulted in Romulus citizens receiving more than $66,000 in rebates. Lewkowicz said the assessor's office, located in city hall, 11111 Wayne Road, will fill out Homestead Property Tax Credit forms free of charge between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays for those who do not have to fill out a state tax form.

Those who have to fill out a state tax form, must have their rebate form filled out by the same tax accountant who did their state tax form and it must be mailed at the same time, according to Lewkowicz.

"We don't want anyone missing out on this opportunity to receive money they have coming to them."

Proposed by road commissions

SEMTA denies support of transit package

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) has denied its supports a mass transit package being proposed by the Wayne and Oakland County Road Commissions.

In the statement from SEMTA, officials said: "It has been brought to the attention of SEMTA that representatives of the Oakland and Wayne County Road Commissions are making presentations of a transportation proposal which is purported to have the support of SEMTA."

"Moreover, it is purported that this proposal was developed with input from SEMTA. If what we have heard is true, we would like to make clear that this is not the case."

SEMTA officials said they are aware of the commissions' proposal, but denied that it was prepared with their knowledge or input.

"We have neither seen nor examined the road commissions' proposal," they added. "Therefore, we are obviously in no position to either support or deny it."

The officials went on to say that an oral presentation on the plan was made to SEMTA by the commissioners, at which time the former was told that the full proposal would be before them by mid-January. "As of this date (Jan. 20), we have received neither the data nor the proposal," they said.

The SEMTA officials in the statement said that when the proposal is made available to them, they will "willingly" examine and comment on it.

"As for the SEMTA input in the preparation of the road commissions' proposal, this allegation is totally inaccurate," they added. "The commissions neither advised SEMTA of their intent to prepare a proposal, nor was SEMTA invited to participate in its formulation."

SEMTA currently is preparing a regional transportation proposal, which includes a comprehensive analysis of various transit alternatives. The analysis is expected to be completed by March.

According to the SEMTA officials, the analysis will identify the most cost-effective regional transportation system in an 1985 time frame, taking into consideration both economic and social impact, as well as the economic development potential of the selected system.

The officials added that the alternatives analysis is an open process involving elected officials, citizens and technicians, and is consistent with federally required planning process.

The process takes into account input from all affected groups and is intended to insure that a well-informed decision is reached. The two road commissions have been involved in the analysis process since its inception.

"...they apparently do not take that involvement seriously since they developed an alternate proposal in a closed atmosphere involving input only from their own staffs and their own consultant," SEMTA officials added.

"We are not passing judgment on the road commissions' proposal," they concluded. "Since we have not seen it, we are in no position to do so. However, again we wish to make it clear that at this point we have offered no support for that plan, nor have we had any input in its preparation."

In the armed forces

Two join Air Force

Two Romulus residents — Mary Olson, 17, and Anthony Hatcher, 17 — have joined the U.S. Air Force through its Delayed Enlistment program (DEP).

Miss Olson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Olson of 28300 Prescott, Romulus, and Hatcher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hatcher of 28714 Smith, Romulus.

According to Air Force recruiter S. Sgt. Fred Davis, their entry into that branch of the armed forces through DEP allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for them to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area.

It also allows them to complete their high school education and wrap up personal affairs before reporting for four years of active duty.

Also in the armed forces:

Lee E. Osborne, the son of Mrs. Bev Osborne of 1562 Spring Hill, Romulus, recently was promoted to Army private first class at Ft. Hood, Tex., where he is serving with the 1st Cavalry Division.

Pfc. Osborne, a field wireman in Headquarters Battery of the Division Artillery, entered the Army in October 1975.

Marine Lance Cpl. Steve D. Niemann, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Niemann of 15212 Huron River Drive, Romulus, and Marine Lance Cpl. Wayne T. Sommer, the son of Thelma M. Sommer of 141 S. Biggs St., Belleville, have returned to Okinawa after a deployment to the Republic of the Philippines.

Niemann is a member of Company C, 1st Battalion, 9th Marine Regiment, a unit of the Okinawan 3rd Marine Division. Sommer also is a member of the same company.

During the deployment, the company participated in survival exercises and maneuver training. Conducted in mountainous terrain and dense jungles, the training stressed counter-guerilla tactics and patrolling.

Neimann is a 1975 graduate of Romulus High School. He joined the Marine Corps in June 1975.

Sommer is a 1973 graduate of Belleville High School and joined the Marine Corps in January 1975.

Residents in downriver and southwest suburban communities will again be offered federal income tax help at the Southland Mall.

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) representatives will be at the mall every Thursday and Friday, tomorrow through April 15. Assistance hours will be 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Southland Mall is at 2300 Eureka Road in Taylor, just west of I-75.

IRS District Director R. L. Patrick, a blind area taxpayer, that help also is available at other locations and by telephone. The IRS offices at 22720 Michigan Avenue in Dearborn and at Room 110 of the McNamara Building in downtown Detroit offer in-person assistance Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Federal tax help is available by phone weekdays from 8:30 a.m. until 5:15 p.m. The toll-free phone number for this area is 1-800-482-0670.

The Loch Ness Monster, Big Foot and other creatures have been cause for conversation and wonder for centuries. In more recent times, many teams of scientists and explorers have been formed to search for these creatures.

One of these scientists, Lee Frank, will give a presentation on this subject at Schoolcraft Community College, at 8 p.m. Feb. 3 in the Waterman Campus Center. His presentation includes slides of the most recent and startling photographic evidence that these creatures do exist.

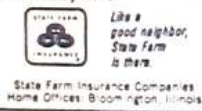

Frank's experience as a monster hunter spans four years. In 1972, he manned a camera station for the Loch Ness Investigation Bureau. That year the Academy of Applied Sciences got some excellent results by going into the creature's own environment. Their automatic cameras photographed what seemed to be a flipper, about eight feet long. For four months in 1973, Frank was the chief scuba diver and field monitor for the academy's expedition. He was again the academy's chief diver in 1974, when the expedition suffered equipment difficulties and departed the Loch early. Frank remained and set up his own camera post.

Most recently, Frank participated in the 1975 expedition which yielded the extraordinary photos published around the world. The authenticity of these photos has now been verified by scientists at Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as well as Britain's Royal Academy of Science.

Tickets for the program are available in the Student Activities Office of the Waterman Campus Center and at the door for $1. For further information call 591-6549.

Doctors give up hope

Cards would cheer cancer patient

By JIM BRADLEY
Of The Enterprise-Roman Staff

A 10-year-old Van Buren Township boy celebrated his birthday Friday and friends streamed through his house all day long, bringing birthday cards and other thoughtful items.

On Saturday the youth, Michael Wirts, 9793 Van Buren Road, wasn't feeling very well, but was cheered as he leafed through the cards he'd received and counted the money given him.

This normally wouldn't be anything out of the ordinary, but Michael has terminal cancer and might not live to see another birthday. In fact, he has been sent home by doctors who say there is nothing more than can do for him.

That's why Ruth Hughes of 'Medical bills have been extremely high and have left the family's financial picture very bleak...'

the American Legion Post No. 3 of Wayne called Associated Newspapers Inc. to ask area schools and churches to have their children send birthday and cheery greeting cards to young Michael.

"It's been quite a trying time for Mr. and Mrs. Wirts, as well as Michael," Mrs. Hughes said. "Medical bills have been extremely high and have left the family's financial picture very bleak."

Mrs. Hughes went on to say that the Wirts' family has had to cash in its life insurance to pay medical bills. Utilities for the family will be paid by the American Legion Post and the Women's Auxiliary, assisted by a Westland man who wishes to remain anonymous.

"We'd especially like the children of the area, along with their public school teachers or Sunday School teachers, to make their own birthday and greeting cards to send Michael," Mrs. Hughes said. "Even if it is a little belated, Michael gets a real big kick from the cards he receives."

"I think children all over the area could find real satisfaction in helping him experience the joy of getting the cards."

Michael attended the third grade at Haggerty Elementary School until March of last year when his illness caused him to drop out.

George Montgomery, a Van Buren Township policeman, stopped Friday to give Michael a sackful of birthday cards from some Quirk Elementary School second graders.

"Michael didn't feel very well Saturday and just sat on the couch, looking at the cards his friends gave him and counting the money that was in some of the envelopes," said Mrs. Wirts. "Michael also likes to put jigsaw puzzles together and draw pictures."

His mother used to help out at Haggerty School until she had to take care of her son at home.

Mrs. Hughes said interested persons can send checks or money orders to help Michael by making them payable to American Legion Post No. 3 or Women's Auxiliary Unit 111, 4422 South Wayne Road, Wayne, in care of Commander Walter Chapman or Mrs. Betty Chapman. They should be marked for the "Michael Wirts Fund."

Further information can be obtained by calling the Chapman home at 427-9002.

"We want to help Michael all we can and we're thankful for all the other people in the area who feel the same way," Mrs. Hughes said.

THE ROMULUS ROMAN

Inaugural invitations arrive for foursome

Many people were invited to President Jimmy Carter's inauguration last Thursday and four of them were from this area.

Two Romulus Democratic precinct delegates, Ray Cianfarani and Horace Streety, were recipients of the engraved invitations in appreciation for their work in Carter's Presidential campaign.

The pair of Van Buren Township residents accorded the honor were a college student and a veteran liberal Democratic woman who had the foresight to write him first. Jerry Robbins, an 18-year-old Eastern Michigan University pre-law student, and Lela Nelson, 66, both wrote Carter.

For Romulus residents Cianfarani and Streety, the honor is one they will treasure all their lives.

"I'm very proud and happy to receive the invitation," said the 31-year-old Cianfarani of 15821 Oakbrook, a 7-year resident of the city.

Cianfarani and his wife, Judy, worked hard for Carter and would have liked to attend the inauguration with their two sons—Willard, 9, and James, 7. However, they watched it on television.

Streety, a 62-year-old retiree from the Ford Rouge Plant, looked for someone to go with, but also wound up watching it on television from his home at 8484 Wahrman.

"I seriously considered going to Washington," said the 33-year veteran journeyman tool cutter grinder, "but when no one else could go, I didn't want to go alone."

Streety and his wife, Lois, President of the para-professional teachers union in Romulus, have four children. The oldest daughter, Barbara, teaches school in Newport News, Va. Close by his son, Alvin, an Army major who is stationed at Ft. Monroe, Va.

Christina, 18, is attending Western Michigan University and Billy, 15, plays basketball at Romulus High School.

While Streety and Cianfarani received their invitations for their work as precinct delegates, Robbins and Mrs. Nelson owe their correspondence from Carter to their own letter writing.

Jerry, who graduated from Belleville High School last June, admits he wasn't all that interested in the Presidential race at the time, but his English composition teacher in college assigned him the task of writing some public figure. He chose Carter, with the inaugural invitation as the result.

The dark-haired Robbins said his friends thought he was pulling a joke on them at first.

"They realized the invitation was for real when I showed it to them," said Robbins, who "kinda favored Carter over Ford."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Nelson was writing a song about Carter and also came up with a recipe for "Carter Pie."

"When I go for someone, I go overboard," admitted Mrs. Nelson, who laughs easily and speaks freely of her liberal beliefs.

"I first wrote Mr. Carter to send him my song — 'Jimmy Carter — Our Man' and he sent a letter and an autographed picture," she laughed.

Her song, which is sung to the tune of "Barney Google," caught the eye of Carter's staff and she received a letter of compliments in return. Then, at the first of this year, she received her invitation to Washington.

"I don't drive and would have found it hard getting around in the nation's capitol, but I looked forward to seeing it on television," said Mrs. Nelson, who also backed George McGovern and Eugene McCarthy in recent Presidential elections.

HORACE STREETY

Change your motivations

How would you like to be always highly-motivated, even-tempered and live a fulfilling life?

These are the goals and accomplishments claimed for a personal development program offered by a local Belleville man who said he has acquired these desired traits.

"Adventures in Attitudes" is the title of a 5-week course offered by Mike Bishop, a 22-year-old life insurance underwriter and real estate salesman. A 1973 graduate of Belleville High School, Bishop recently finished three years in the Air Force during which he attended Lake Superior State College.

"This course has done wonders for my confidence and motivation and it will help everyone who takes it," Bishop said confidently.

The "Adventures in Attitudes" course will be held on five weekends, beginning Feb. 5 and Feb. 7. Times for the classes will be from 1 to 4 p.m. on the five consecutive Saturdays and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Monday.

The seminar will be held in the banquet room of Nickerson Farms' "Tin Lizzie" Restaurant, 10915 Belleville Road, Belleville.

Bishop graduated last spring from the Advance School of Business with an Accredited Bookkeepers Certificate and recently finished a Leadership Development Program in Minneapolis to become a certified senior coordinator in presenting the "Adventures in Attitudes" seminar.

"This has helped me accomplish many of my life's goals and I'm looking forward to showing its benefits to as many as possible," Bishop said.

Cost of the 30-hour seminar is $60.

"This course is helping educators, administrators, business people, pastors and other Christian workers, housewives and everyone else interested in personal development," he added.

More information may be obtained by calling Pat Priebe at 697-4669.

"Anyone who takes the course will be thrilled at the improvement and brighter outlook they have on everyday life," Bishop said.

who will be let out and will do the same crime again."

Westlander Cathy Fitus believes capital punishment "will do a lot of good."

Chris Deiter

"I don't know why they ever did away with it (the death penalty)."

Chris Deiter, a 35-year-old electrician, also favored capital punishment, saying: "If the criminal knows he has to pay the ultimate price, maybe he'll hesitate to engage in criminal activities."

"Life imprisonment is a greater burden on the living over the years," the Wayneite added.

Linda Calladine, a 25-year-old Westlander, doesn't think capital punishment will have an effect on crime, however, does favor its imposition for murder.

"If they're going to do it, they're going to do it," she added.

A 34-year-old Belleville resident, who wished to remain anonymous, took a stand against capital punishment, saying that she was very much for it up to the night before Gary Gilmore's execution.

"Just the fact that he was going to die by plan changed my mind," she said. "I used to believe murders should be put away, taken out of society permanently, but when it came right down to his execution, I got very upset."

"The question that comes to my mind is does anyone have the right to take another's life? Do two wrongs make a right? We're punishing a man for murder by taking his life."

"Do we have the right to take his life anymore than he had the right to take someone else's?"

RAY CIANFARANI

Jury systems wins national accolade

Wayne County Circuit Court's One-Day Trial Program is in line to receive the highest award of a U.S. Department of Justice agency.

The complete jury reorganization project, now 16 months old, will receive the prestigious Exemplary Award of the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA).

Dr. Caroline Burnstein of the Office of Technology Transfer, National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, called the Wayne County program "one of the most innovative and productive court programs I have seen in years ..."

The Exemplary Award is highly sought and bestows national recognition for outstanding achievement and contribution of grant projects funded by the LEAA. The agency plans to disseminate brochures and to print an official LEAA manual to assist 3,000 courts in the country to develop their own One-Day-One Trial program.

The streamlined jury approach was planned and directed by David E. Kasunic, a Detroit attorney, who was appointed by Presiding Circuit Court Judge James Canham to coordinate the pilot study in response to problems experienced under the previous system, which called jurors for a term of 30 days. That lengthy period caused many prospective jurors to seek excuse and resulted in jury panels that were not representative of the community.

Under the present plan jurors report for one day or the duration of one trial if selected for a case. Jurors questioned about their reaction to the system have indicated overwhelming approval. Many said they would not have been able to serve under the 30-day term because of business, professional, domestic or student schedules which they could not accommodate to the inflexible time commitment.

The number of citizens requesting excuse from jury duty has reached a low of 1.3 percent of summoned jurors. Members of the Bench have reported that current jury panels appear to comprise a real cross-section of the community and that jurors are more alert and responsive.

Judge Canham had been informed last fall that the Wayne jury project had been selected as one of several dozen criminal justice programs for consideration of the LEAA's exemplary status.

Upon learning that the Wayne entry had been singled out for a top Exemplary Award, Judge Canham said: "The whole Wayne Circuit Bench has been privately proud of the One-Day-One-trial success. With this national recognition, the City of Detroit and all of Wayne County can be proud of the local accomplishment, as well."

"What distinguishes our contribution, probably is its replicability to other courts," Canham said. "Kasunic thoroughly documented each step of the operation so that other jurisdictions could learn from our experience and adopt or modify the program without need of grant money or special funds. Even our computer programming can be used as a guide by the Data Processing Department in other areas."

Kasunic said he already had received requests from all over the country for copies of the manuals he had prepared which describe the design and implementation of every aspect of the juror selection and usage processes.

"Several courts, on the basis of our experience, are considering initiating the system. Just this past week we had officials from Pittsburgh, Penn., who came to Detroit to see our program in operation since they plan to try it in Allegheny County."

The Exemplary Projects Program was established by LEAA to identify outstanding criminal justice programs throughout the country, to verify their achievements and to publicize them widely. The goal is to encourage widespread use of advanced criminal justice practices.

Rigorous screening procedures have been established to select only those programs which warrant adoption on a broad scale.

White named to dean's list; Loukinen joins college staff

Belleville resident, Rickey L. White, the son of Melvin White, has been named to the dean's list at Carson-Newman College for the first semester of 1977, according to Academic Dean Roy A. Dobyns.

To be named to the honor list a student must compile a 3.5 grade point average or better.

Also in school news:

Dr. Michael M. Loukinen, whose wife, Elaine, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Foster of Eureka Road, Romulus, is the new assistant professor in the sociology department at Northern Michigan University (NMU) in Marquette.

Loukinen is a 1972 master's graduate of Michigan State University and received his doctoral degree from that same university.

Prior to joining the faculty of NMU, he was an instructor of sociology at Michigan Technological University in Houghton.

Local high school students are invited to enter the Interlochen Arts Academy's 1977 Michigan Youth Writing Competition.

Any ninth through 12th grade students in Michigan, except those attending the academy, may submit poetry of story manuscripts for consideration.

Outstanding entries will appear in "The Interlochen Review", a journal of selected works by young writers from across the nation. Cash prizes will be awarded for the best poetry and short stories.

Contest rules are available from Loretta Sharp, head of the Literary Arts Division, Interlochen Arts Academy, Interlochen, Mich. 49643. Deadline for entry is Feb. 15.

Shrinking districts to get financial aid

School districts with declining student enrollments will receive a financial boost from the state according to terms of bill signed into law recently, said Senate Majority Leader William Faust (S-Westland), chief architect of the legislation.

Praising the bill's enactment into law, Faust said the measure "is a progressive step toward ensuring that Michigan's school children are given quality educational opportunities".

"Declining school enrollments are a nationwide problem, with enrollments falling so rapidly in some communities that elementary schools have had to shut down," he added. "The $1.6 million in relief money provided for in this measure should protect Michigan schools from a similar fate."

In order to qualify for the money, a district's enrollment would have to drop 2 percent or more in one year. Since basic state aid is based on average daily attendance, many Michigan schools now are losing money.

"The problem is expected to increase, since a 200,000-student decline has been predicted for school districts in Michigan by 1980-81," Faust said.

The newly enacted legislation will help seven school systems in Faust's 13th Senatorial District. Those systems and the amounts they will receive are: Cherry Hill, $13,514; Garden City, $31,004; Huron, $14,328; Inkster, $14,364; Livonia, $70,806; Taylor, $1,110; and Ypsilanti, $7,459.

Seniors to have festival

The Wayne County Office on Aging will sponsor a free Ethnic Culture Festival for senior citizens at Wayne County General Hospital's Senior Day Care Center in Westland Monday through next Friday.

The day care center is located in J Building on the hospital grounds.

The festival will feature an ethnic costume fashion show, craft displays and exhibits, folk dances and food samplings from different cultures.

"All area residents are invited to attend," said Mrs. Edith Boyer, director of the center. "Seniors, with advance reservations, will be entitled to a free hot lunch."

Reservations for the festival are necessary, she added.

"More than 30 senior citizens will take an active part in the week-long event," Mrs. Boyer said. "They actually will be doing the modeling in the fashion show, helping to prepare the lunches and ethnic treats, and performing the dance routines of their native countries."

The calendar of events for the week include:

- A discussion at 11:30 a.m. Monday of the history of Wayne County;
- Food sampling from different cultures at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday;
- Ethnic craft displays and exhibits at 10 a.m. next Wednesday;
- The similarities and differences of ethnic folk dances at 10 a.m. next Thursday; and
- An ethnic costume fashion show at 10 a.m. next Friday.

Snow fun in Michigan

Smallest month is big on winter events

The smallest month of the year is a mighty big one on winter events and snow fun in the state, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Winter carnivals and festivals are very much in evidence in February and in Michigan that means great good times for every member of the family. The first weekend—Feb. 4-6—is a "bang-up" one with the Winter Sports Festival at Grayling, Perchville U.S.A. at East Tawas and the Gladwin County Ice Carnival at Gladwin.

The Grayling event is Michigan's oldest annual winter sports festival growing bigger and better over 52 years. This year's activities will include cross country ski races, ice skating and Klondike canoe races, ice sculptures and a dinner-dance. A favorite attraction of Perchville U.S.A. is the Polar Bear Swim, an event whose participants are either daft or extremely hale, hearty and daring. In addition there is ice fishing and a host of other entertaining events.

All kinds of action will take place at the Gladwin Ice Carnival including motorcycle racing on the ice, ice spudding, snowmobile races, helicopter and hay rides.

On Feb. 5-6, some unpredictable maneuvers will surely create some exciting moments at the "Furrin" Car Races, on the ice of Lake Missaukee at Lake City. There also will be some fishing excitement at the Hillsdale County Tip-Up Festival on Baw Beese Lake in Hillsdale.

The 39th edition of the Winter Carnival at Lewiston comes up Feb. 7-8 with a lengthy list of events to enjoy and maybe take part in. Among those scheduled are a parade-on-snow, golf on the ice, curling, a winter carnival dance, ice skating and fishing.

Moving right along, Sand Lake holds their Winter Festival Feb. 11-13; more fun for winter ice fishermen February 12-13 at the Tip-Up Carnival, Tip-Up Island, Quincy; and the annual Winter Carnival at Hessel, Feb. 19-20. Among many other things, the Hessel Carnival will feature air-sleigh races, skydiving and all kinds of snowmobile events.

For "kids" of all ages, the 3-ring exaltation of the Shrine Circus is scheduled for Feb. 4-20 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit. Summer sailors can look over the newest models of trim craft and nautical equipment at the Greater Michigan Boat Show, Feb. 5-13 at Cobo Hall in Detroit. And the "travelin' fever" of modern day nomads is sure to rise when they visit the Detroit Camper and Travel Trailer Show, Feb. 11-20 at the West Eight Mile Armory in Oak Park. All types of recreational vehicles will be on display, from the small compact variety to the large, self-contained models that resemble a home on wheels.

On the competitive side, sled dog, ski and snowmobile races dominate the February snow sports scene. The annual running of the Midwest International Sled Dog Races at Kalkaska takes place Feb. 5-6 with other sled dog races, scheduled at Traverse City Feb. 12-13; Mio, Feb. 19-20; and Oscoda, tentatively for Feb. 19-20.

Two big races are set for the slopes of Pine Mountain near Iron Mountain. The first being the USSA-CD Elite Class Alpine Races, Feb. 5-6, and then the MCSA Alpine Qualifying and Women's Alpine Championship, Feb. 26.

There always are plenty of thrills, and, a few spills too at the Suicide Hill Invitational Ski Jumping Tournament and Paul Bietila Memorial at Suicide Bowl near Ishpeming Feb. 19-20. More of the same breathtaking competition, Feb. 26-27 at the Wolverine Ski Jumping Tournament at Ironwood.

For those who prefer their skiing closer to the ground, there's the Cross-Country Ski Run For Fun from Whispering Pines, Tawas City.

No. 1 in snowmobile events this month is the I-500 Feb. 12 at Sault Ste. Marie. This exacting 10-hour marathon around a 1-mile oval track is one of the toughest snowmobile races run anywhere.

Other activities for the motorized sleds include the Snowmobile Hill Climb Feb. 5-6 and Feb. 26-27 at Lake City; the Manistique Area Snowmobile Ride-In Feb. 19 at Manistique; and the First Quad-Enduro Snowmobile Race Feb. 26 at Newberry.

Tee-off time for the seventh annual Polar Ice Cap Golf Tournament at Grand Haven is 8:30 a.m. Feb. 12. This unique, somewhat frigid event is played on two 9-hole, par 3 courses laid out on ice-covered Spring Lake with holes ranging in length from 22 to 141 yards. If you plan to participate, don't forget your ear muffs, insulated boots, furry mittens and "long Johns".

Don't let the winter "drearies" get to you! Get out and get into the great snow fun of Michigan. For the complete list of February happenings, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Full fledged, red blooded Michigan fishermen—and women—never let a little ice come between them and their aquatic quarry, even during the month of February.

Gas firm tightens its shut-off policy to nab bill dodgers

"Deliberate bill dodgers" who are taking advantage of rules originally designed to help people unable to pay, will find Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. has tightened up its shut-off policy.

The company last year alone was unable to collect $6 million in gas bills, a sum that will be added to bills of customers who do pay, a spokesman said.

Now, according to Michigan Consolidated President Charles R. Montgomery, the company is discontinuing the practice of not shutting off gas when temperatures go below 25 degrees.

Even under the new company policy, no household gas will be turned off until after the customer gets at least two advance notices. Customers appearing to be suffering honest hardship will continue to be helped in getting assistance from public agencies or—in many cases—will be offered a special payment plan.

"The old policy was designed to prevent undue hardship on customers who basically are honest, but temporarily broke," Montgomery said.

"But the word of our low-temperature ban on shut-offs got around and encouraged dishonest customers to accumulate large bills during the coldest winter months and then move to another address in the spring," Montgomery continued.

With the elimination of the temperature shut-off ban, Montgomery said, Michigan Consolidated's collection practices now are consistent with those of other Michigan utilities and the billing practices rules issued by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Montgomery said uncollectible accounts were not a major problem when the low-temperature rule was adopted in 1957 because gas was so cheap at the time.

"But now gas is more expensive and the total arrears have grown so fast that they have become a heavy and unfair burden on those customers who do regularly meet their gas bills," he said.

Montgomery said the new stricter policy was urged on the company by a number of consumer and welfare groups. "They told us that prompt collection enforcement would force a delinquent customer to pay an outstanding bill before it reached uncontrollable proportions or force such a customer to seek assistance when it would do the most good," he added.

To get services restored, a customer should go to the nearest Michigan Consolidated business office and pay the bill.

A customer also can call the company at any time, 24 hours a day, for further information on paying the bill.

Citizens should support parole reform

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson has launched a campaign to reform the State's parole laws in the hope of reducing the growing number of violent crimes perpetrated by persons paroled prior to serving, even the minimum sentence, imposed on them by the state.

Patterson's campaign to reform the State's parole laws is being taken to the citizens of the state, rather than to the State legislature. This approach is necessary, according to Patterson, because the legislature has been unresponsive to this problem, having not acted on proposed legislation introduced in their body as early as 1973.

The state-wide petition drive hoped for by Patterson would collect enough valid signatures to force the question to the ballot in the 1978 general election, thereby, by-passing the legislatures' characteristic reluctance to address themselves to issues of this type.

We think that Patterson's claim that the people of Michigan are being raped, robbed, and murdered, over and over again by the same people, is a valid one.

We agree with his contention that the State and Parole Board policy has provided nothing more than a revolving door in the State's prisons, for the hardened criminals who have been convicted of committing these terrible acts of violence.

Murder, armed robbery, rape and other violent crimes must be at least reduced, if not eliminated altogether.

The only effective deterrent to crime has been and still is, certainty of punishment. While some might argue with that conclusion, no one can argue with the fact that a convicted criminal behind bars will not be responsible for a violent crime with your neighbor, the victim.

When you get in your automobile, you must accept the normal risk of having an accident. When you go for a swim, you must accept the normal risk of drowning. When going for a walk in your neighborhood, you must accept the normal risk of tripping over a curb or incurring a dog bite, but being brutalized by thugs, mugged by dope-addicts or raped by the deprived are not normal risks even if they are committed by a first offender, but when these acts are committed by someone who was released on parole, after the conviction of a similar crime, they become absurd risks that have no justification.

Quite logically though, the entire question of what constitutes normal risk is difficult to define. The real question then, is not how soon you should release a convicted felon on parole, but how to separate those who qualify for parole, on the basis of the risk they represent to the community.

We suggest that this is the real question Michigan should have long ago addressed itself to. The problems associated with our parole system as it is now constituted.

It would be both unfair and unjust to prolong the confinement of persons who might reasonably be expected to take up a productive position in society. It is equally unjust to society, to release from confinement someone who might represent an unreasonable risk.

Unfortunately, the State Legislature has not seen fit to address itself to this problem. This being the case, we think the right of society must prevail over the rights of those held in confinement for violating society's law.

Therefore, we endorse L. Brooks Patterson's plan for parole reform.

We support his petition drive, as a small step in the direction of common sense.

Once again our leaders find themselves bringing up the rear. Only on issues such as legislative pay increases, are they able to effectively legislate.

On the brighter side

Looking for stars

By JIM BRADLEY
Eagle Staff Writer

"Two men looked out from prison bars — one saw mud, the other stars."

Isn't it a little odd how two people in exactly the same situation can respond in such different ways? And yet we see it everyday.

Some curse the darkness while others light candles. Some decry their bad luck in life, others work harder to achieve success. Grouches wonder why they're lonely, happy people can't number their friends.

A man once said he complained that he had no shoes, until he met a man who had no feet.

Yes, life is basically what you make it. That's why you need to promise yourself the very best. Today you're going to look at the sunshine, not the clouds...remember the smiles, ignore the frowns and realize that today will be just what you allow it to be.

In his poem, "It's Fine Today," Douglas Malloch penned the words:

SURE, this world is full of trouble —
I ain't said it ain't
LORD, I've had enough and double
Reason for complaint;
RAIN and storm have come to fret me,
Skies are often gray;
THORNS and brambles have beset me
On the road — but say,
AIN'T IT FINE TODAY?
WHAT'S the use of always weepin',
Making trouble last?
WHAT'S the use of always keepin',
Thinking of the past?
EACH must have his tribulation —
Water with his wine;
LIFE, it ain't no celebration,
Trouble? — I've had mine —
BUT TODAY IS FINE!
IT'S today that I am livin',
Not a month ago.

HAVIN'; losin'; takin';
givin';
as time wills it so,
YESTERDAY a cloud of sorrow
Fell across the way;
IT MAY rain again tomorrow,
If may rain — but say,
AIN'T IT FINE TODAY?

Taking life in stride and being thankful for the little blessings in life is what it's all about. And this past Monday evening something happened at our house to start my train of thought on this track.

As the 11 o'clock news was winding to a close, we were startled by a loud noise coming from our furnace. Racing downstairs we excitedly checked the huge heat-belching machine to determine what was wrong. Our lack of knowledge led us only to speculation but we did hit on the right answer, however, by turning off the fan switch.

The rumbling noise stopped.

But now we would soon be living in a chilled house — and the hands on the bright kitchen clock read 11:30 p.m. Once again "Murphy's law" had prevailed. When our furnace goes out, it always is near midnight or after. Never is it at a reasonable hour when a serviceman is easy to reach.

Urgently my wife and I flipped the yellow pages, searching for some learned furnace-fixer to respond to our S.O.S. (Stop Our Shivering). We dialed two phone numbers that we took from emergency sticker on the side of our "cooling" furnace.

No answer.

Then we spotted a large yellow pages ad that read "24 hour service" and twirled the numbers indicated. After several rings a man responded in a low voice, "Hello." I explained our difficulty to the furnace repair man in very technical terms: "Our furnace is making this funny rumbling noise," and then to add urgency to the tone, I added: "sounds like it might blow up at any time."

(Which was no exaggeration).

"I'll be over soon," he responded, after checking the name and address.

Our three teenage sons slept on, oblivious to what was happening around them. (aren't they always?). My wife continued to work on her new skirt, allowing as how she might as well accomplish something since we had to wait for the furnace man anyhow. (She would have stayed up anyway to finish the outfit).

While she completed her sewing chores, I glanced at my pajamas and exclaimed: "I better go get dressed, I don't want the furnace man to see me like this!" So, with the clock nearing 1 a.m., I went and got dressed like any normal human being would. (Why is it we don't want people to see us in our pajamas?).

Should I put on a shirt and tie our should I look casual in my leisure suit?" I said to my wife.

"Don't be silly, Jim," my wife answered for the 4,523 time since we were married in 1955.

"Well, after all," I countered, "you don't find people that will make house calls every day, you know."

"That's true, but he's coming to see the furnace, not you."

Within a short time there was a knock on the back door and a large, jacketed man stood holding a large leather bag in his huge hand. I led him to the recalcitrant furnace (that means it wouldn't work) and he took the door off the side of the two-year-old furnace.

His first words caught my attention. "Uh-huh," he mumbled. I leaned closer and he made it sound really with, "Oh boy!" My mind whirled like a cash register when finally said: "Can you imagine that?" I don't know about you, but at 1 o'clock in the morning, after working 12 hours, I was absolutely in no mood for "Uh-huh, Oh boy!" and Can you imagine that." (Even if he was a guest in my home.)

Well, to make a long story longer, he finally said that it wouldn't be as bad as he first thought. It seems that the thing-a-ma-bob had slipped off the widget and he had it repaired in practically no time. We threw the fan switch and it purred beautifully as the warm air silently swirled throughout the house.

We wrote a check and handed it to the furnace doctor — a rare person who still makes house calls. He gave us a pretty yellow receipt in return for our payment and slipped out into the dark, snowy night.

After he was gone, I sat back in a comfortable chair and reflected on how often we take things for granted. "You never miss the water 'til the well runs dry," and you never miss the heat 'til the furnace whidget (that's a master-size whidget) comes loose from the thing-a-ma-bob. Other things in life we sometimes take for granted are our jobs, our wives, husbands, cars, homes, health, children, ministers — and furnaces.

In the course of my thoughts I recalled part of the poem, "A Bag of Tools," by R. L. Sharpe:

"Each is given a bag of tools,
A shapeless mass,
A book of rules;
And each must make —
Ere life is flown —
A stumbling block
Or a steppingstone."

I'm sure glad the furnace repairman had his bag of tools with him Monday night.

People versus special interest

A former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, John Gardner is Chairman of Common Cause.

By JOHN W. GARDNER

Every President at the beginning of a four-year term will be given his moment of national goodwill. But will he be given the chance to govern? For a wonderful moment there will be the sense of a new chapter, a chance to begin again. But will he then be caught in the same web of special interests that has closed in on his recent predecessors?

The answer is that he stands a fighting chance of exercising leadership — but only if he acts to gain command of his own administration. Let's look at a monumental problem he faces. We'll call it the Special Interest State.

During and after World War II there occurred an explosive growth in the number of special interests seeking to influence government. Most people hold a vastly oversimplified view of those interests. "There's business," they say, "and then there's labor." But beyond those are the agricultural interests, the maritime interests, regional interests, religious interests, just about every profession (doctors, trial lawyers, accountants, pathologists, and so on) and almost every institutional category (hospitals, junior colleges, etc.). The organized groups number in the thousands.

According to current mythology there exists a domineering entity called The Federal Government which is always at odds with a wholly separate entity called The Private Sector.

In fact, a large part of what is called The Federal Government is not a coherent entity at all, but a collection of fragments under the virtual control of highly-organized special interests in the private sector. In the Special Interest State that we have forged, every well-organized interest owns a piece of the rock.

Instead of the United States being run by a well-knit behind-the-scenes power group—as the conspiracy theorists would have it—it is whipsawed by a great multiplicity of special interests. The result is paralysis in national policymaking.

All too often each special interest has veto power over one essential piece of a solution, and no one has the power to solve the problem—as in the case of New York City. No one wants to make the problem unsolvable, but collectively they paralyze policymaking. The rule applies to every complex problem we face—inflation, energy, tax reform, transportation: the list is endless.

The special interests are not sinister forces. They are all of us. Yet we are seeing a war of the parts against the whole. Everything is so interrelated today that our capacity to frustrate one another through non-cooperation has increased dramatically—as the air traffic controllers have discovered.

What can a President do?

He can win any specific fight with the bureaucracy if the bureaucracy is his sole foe. But he can't win out over many hundreds of alliances in which the bureaucrats, supposedly under his command, have hidden links with Congress and outside lobbies.

Every legitimate special interest from General Motors to the American Medical Association has a constitutional right to try to influence government. But they should not be allowed to operate behind a veil of secrecy, nor to use money in ways that corrupt the public process, nor to paralyze the system.

While we have already made significant progress in remedial measures, much remains to be done. Public financing of political campaigns will go a long way to free our elected officials from bondage to the special interests. Conflict of interest statutes, including personal financial disclosure, will diminish the likelihood that officials will be influenced by their personal financial interests.

Another set of remedial measures focuses on "open government." Openness ranks next to the rule of law as a fundamental ingredient of self-government. Power exercised in secret breeds corruption.

With the game being played out in the open, less at the mercy of hidden influences, and a Congress that has not been bought and paid for, our system has a chance of working.

Respiratory Therapy A developing art

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations,
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

It was 12:20 on a Wednesday afternoon, and the cafeteria at the Annapolis Hospital was crowded with the usual lunch-hour confusion.

Dishes clattered, a glass fell to the floor and broke, the telephone rang and a nurse was paged, the cash register continued to produce an uninterrupted cadence — the normal sounds.

Then, over the loudspeaker concealed in the ceiling, came a message of urgency: "Respiratory therapist, 4th floor, stat."

In hospital language, the noun stat (which is an abbreviation of the Latin statim) means respond at once.

William T. Lacey, who directs the Respiratory Therapy and EKG Department at Annapolis, dropped his fork onto his plate and was out of the cafeteria door and to the elevator before the stat message was completed a second time.

"When we hear that code called, we automatically drop everything and move as quickly as possible to the scene of patient distress," he said following his efforts in the room of a patient who had experienced some difficulty breathing.

Lacey is a practitioner in a relatively new subspecialty of medicine called respiratory therapy.

He said that RT's were formerly called inhalation therapists, and that their function from the early 1940's to the late 1950's was restricted only to limited therapy to assist a patient in breathing.

"Like everything else in medicine," he said, "our art has grown, equipment been improved, and our educational standards upgraded to the point where four-year bachelors degree programs are now being instituted."

Lacey earned an Associate Degree in Science from Washtenaw Community College in 1973, and like other paraprofessionals has attended seminars and workshops and followed closely the literature in the field.

He said there are now 22 people in the Department, and all are trained in setting up EKG's as well as performing in respiratory therapy.

"The EKG, EEG, and Echocardiography functions are all part of the Respiratory Therapy Department," he said, "and respiratory therapy and EKG services are available on a 24-hour basis. Echocardiography and EEG services are available on an appointment schedule."

He said that the Respiratory Therapists have, as their main concern, the responsibility to assure that the airway for ventilation is clear — that the patient can breathe normally.

RT's work under physicians' orders, both in pre-operative assignments and post-operative efforts.

If you have ever had surgery at Annapolis Hospital, chances are that soon after you were visited by an RT who brought into your room a strange looking piece of apparatus which was wheeled to your bedside.

One side of the apparatus was connected to the oxygen outlet in the wall, and you were given a sterile mouthpiece which was connected via tubing and a calibration dial to the other side of the apparatus.

If the physician managing your case had so ordered, medication was measured in, and you were asked to breathe through the mouthpiece for a specified time.

Lacey said that what was happening in this instance was the introduction of a perhaps 70 percent mixture of pure oxygen and medication to clear your lungs and eliminate any congestion.

The treatment is painless and beneficial, something you have a right to expect in a "quality oriented hospital," Lacey said.

He explained that as the state of the art advances, equipment will be updated to accommodate more sophisticated procedures and diagnostic tests.

There are now approximately 4600 registered RT's in the country, and when you consider that there are 7000 plus accredited hospitals, it is easy to see that respiratory therapy is still in its infancy, but is fast approaching maturity.

RT's, working in concert with physicians and nurses, are now accepted as integral components in the over-all management of a case.

And it is you, the ultimate consumer of this service, who will be the beneficiaries of this maturation.

This person's last word on Carter pardon

Alright enough is enough. I wasn't going to say anything, I've strained my self control to the breaking point. I decided that enough had been said, and since the decision had been made, and would not be undone, there was no point in continuing the dialogue. But the events of the last few days have pushed me over the edge. I feel I must speak-out one last time on this well worn subject.

On Friday, January 21, our new President Jimmie Carter, true to his campaign promise, granted a blanket pardon to those who chose to run, rather than serve, in this country's Vietnam conflict.

The pardon issued by Carter allows those persons who fled the country, or otherwise avoided the draft, to resume their normal place in our society. I feel that Carter's pardon of draft evaders was just as wrong as Ford's pardon of Nixon, and for many of the same reasons.

A touching story in the Detroit News, about a young man who had fled to Canada to avoid serving his country in Vietnam, was the trigger that fired me up.

In brief, the story outlined this 'Americans' view of his possible return to the U.S. following his pardon. The former schoolteacher's attitude was reported to be one disgust rather than joy and he was quoted as saying that he just lost faith that things were going to improve in America.

Get that, there he was hiding in Canada, comfortable with his wife and kids, making judgments about the morals of America, while his friends were getting themselves killed in Vietnam. Seems just a little inconsistent, but if the need is great enough, almost anything can be rationalized.

I have no quarrel with the right of anyone to make his own judgment regarding the validity of any decision made by his government.

I have no quarrel with a person deciding to leave his country to avoid engaging in an action which his conscience tells him is wrong or improper. But I do quarrel with a government that establishes two sets of rules. One set for those who appear to have been stupid enough to accept their country's directive to fight the war, and the other set for those who were not.

Let's look at the bottom line, at least as I see it.

I was born in this country, and raised to believe that anything worthwhile was worth fighting for. I spent two years of my life in the U.S. Army. Not because I wanted to, but rather because I felt I should.

I was lucky. There was no fighting in the jungles for me.

The daily fight for a place in the chow line was about the most serious confrontation I witnessed first hand. But still I didn't like it.

The thought of being part of an armed conflict scared me half to death, and even today I'm not too sure I know how I would react in a Vietnam situation, but here is the point I am trying to make.

It is very difficult for me to believe that any decision made to avoid the draft was not based primarily on just plain fear.

Now I don't mean to discount the influence that our country's intelligentsia may have had on the young men receiving their draft notices, many of whom received active encouragement to resist from that quarter. But fear had to have been at least one of the basic reasons that resisting the draft was so wide spread.

Now since most of us are built alike, and have the same fears and instincts, it is safe to assume that most of those young men who did not resist the draft suffered the same doubts and fears that the resisters claimed, unless of course the draft evaders were of a much higher intellect than the average, which doesn't appear likely.

If you accept the premise then that only the smart or the very scared people fled to avoid the draft, then it would follow that any one who did not resist would have to have been: stupid, crazy, or a killer. Quite an indictment of our country's military.

After the war, these half-wits and misfits who served returned home to their reward for having allowed themselves to be blown apart, maimed, disfigured and psychologically destroyed. Their reward was simply the right to return home—after all—the draft evaders were paying a much higher price for their actions, banishment from the greatest country in the world.

Last week President Carter changed all that.

Last week the government of this country cancelled-out the only reward a returning veteran from Vietnam could have claimed. The exclusive right of living in the country which he had fought for.

Now that veteran, who will never see, walk, talk, or make love again realizes what a fool he was. He will spend the rest of his life wishing that he too had been smart enough to have fled the country.

I have raised my children to believe that they have a responsibility to society and their country. I am no longer sure I was right.

I have often thought about how I might react to watching my boy board a train for his trip to an Army training camp, to learn how to help defend his country in a time of crisis.

I can feel the knot in my stomach, now even thinking about that situation, but Carter has made me feel much better.

I pray that we never find ourselves in another Vietnam war, but if we do, Carter's action has now given me the right to decide whether my children will take part in it.

Carter has convinced me that only the ignorant will not resist.

The origin of school funds

The total tax revenue received for running the public schools of Michigan—including salaries, fringe benefits, equipment, supplies, building and debt-service costs, both in the local districts and in the larger "intermediate" districts that serve as support units—will be about $3.5 billion in the 1976-77 school year.

Eight years ago, in 1968-69, the figure was roughly $1.7 billion. Yet the total number of students being taught, after reaching a high in 1971-72 of more than 2.2 million, has dropped back today to below 2.1 million—some 22,000 less students than were enrolled in 1968-69.

Why have school costs more than doubled in eight years, even though fewer pupils are now being educated? The factors most frequently cited are the high inflation rate of recent years and the "mandating" of new school programs and responsibilities, sometimes through legislative action, more frequently by court rulings. Schools must pay unemployment and worker's compensation today, provide expensive special education programs for handicapped pupils, and do numerous other things that were minor or unknown eight years ago. In brief, more is being demanded of the schools.

One other factor, discussed more and more often today, is the phenomenon of "declining enrollment". Schools have been unable, with the drop in students seen since 1971-72, to reduce their staffs proportionately. As a frequently heard example, how can a 10 percent savings be achieved when a high school math class drops from 20 to 18 pupils? The same space and fixed costs remain, and a teacher must still be retained, with both annual and increment increases generally specified in a contract.

This increase in costs is not unique to education; it has occurred in all areas of public and human services. But unlike social services or "welfare" where roughly half the costs are met with federal funds, the schools receive very little from Washington. Only about 4.4 percent of the $3.5 billion total will come from federal funds.

State school aid will make up about 42.6 percent, including all of the employer's share of both Social Security and retirement costs for school

Michigan parole reform

We are being raped, robbed, and murdered by the same people over and over again.

Unfortunately for the citizens of this State, the Parole Board has installed a revolving door in Jackson Prison and hardened criminals who have committed terrible acts of violence, including murder, armed robbery, and rape are being released prematurely to once again prey upon the law abiding public.

Do I overstate the problem? Here are some examples of crimes committed in Oakland County since I was elected Prosecutor in 1973. You decide if I have exaggerated.

ON MAY 21, 1973

Police Officer Henry Wolfe was shot in the back by two parolees whom he had stopped on a minor traffic violation.

Defendant Ruben Herrera, although ordered to serve 15 to 25 years for his first murder in 1965, was released early in 1973 after serving only 7 1/2 years.

The co-defendant Charles Meadows, though ordered to serve 3 to 15 years for armed robbery, was also released early on parole after serving only 22 months.

ON JUNE 27, 1973

Milford High School Senior Deborah Bingham was found strangled to death in the trunk of her father's car. Later that day Walter Lee Corbin, on parole for only 37 days, was arrested and charged with the homicide.

He had been ordered to serve 2 1/2 to 5 years for the abduction of a female who he had tied up and placed in the trunk of a car less than 22 months before. He, too, was released before he had served his minimum term.

ON SEPTEMBER 6, 1974

Carol Seiss, 22-year-old, was shot to death and a 17 year old bystander was shot three times but survived.

The assailant, Jack Kenneth Humphries, was on parole only 11 days before he committed these crimes. He was killed the next day in a shoot-out with the Livingston County Sheriff's Department.

Humphries had been released two years early on parole from his commitment to Ionia as a criminal sexual pscopath.

JANUARY 23, 1975

Northville party store owner Joseph G. Snage, Jr. was shot five times in the back as he lay helpless on the floor.

Parolee James John Olin was later arrested and convicted of first degree murder.

Despite Olin's criminal record which included two prior armed robbery convictions, as well as a recent escape from prison, he was paroled before his minimum sentence was served for his last armed robbery.

MARCH 20, 1975

The Farmington Hills Police Department found an 11 year old girl named Kelly Curley floating in a swamp.

The autopsy showed that she suffered before she died. At age 11, she had been raped, sodomized and her neck was broken when she was strangled to death.

For the brutal killing of Kelly Curley we arrested—and have since convicted—George Onifer.

When Onifer was arrested he was then on parole for raping a little girl in Macomb County in 1968.

For that rape in 1968 the judge sentenced him 25 to 50 years, calling him a menace to society, and yet George Onifer served 4 1/2 years of his minimum sentence before he was released early.

SEPTEMBER 21, 1975

Pontiac resident Dickel Clark's throat was cut during an armed robbery by a man on parole for armed robbery.

The parolee involved, David Michael Keiser, later convicted of first degree murder in this particularly brutal homicide, had been released eight years before his minimum term was served for his last armed robbery conviction.

NOVEMBER 5, 1976

On a brisk November 5, 1976, Janet Phillips 19, decided to walk to school. She was kidnapped.

The next day, the body of Miss Phillips was found in a field, her skull crushed, and her throat slashed.

Later that day Michael O'Brien, paroled just the prior April from an assault and breaking and entering conviction, was arrested and charged in the vicious murder of this young Union Lake student.

When I criticized the Parole Board for this early parole of a dangerous felon before he had served his minimum sentence which directly resulted in the tragic death of an innocent victim, Leonard McConnell, Chairman of the Michigan Parole Board, callously responded: "THAT'S THE STATE LAW AND WE OPERATE UNDER IT. IF MR. PATTERSON DOESN'T LIKE IT HE SHOULD SEEK TO CHANGE THE LAW." (Royal Oak Tribune, November 9, 1976)

DECEMBER 7, 1976

Police Officer Gerald Carpenter was ambushed and shot six times.

He was killed while on duty guarding parolee Benny Clay, a hospital patient under police guard for an armed robbery attempt.

Clay had been paroled just six weeks before!—early!—from his last armed robbery conviction.

Clay's record goes back through three full pages of detailed history of violent crimes and parole violations, and yet the Parole Board unbelievably rewarded him with an early release.

ON JANUARY 4, 1977

The prosecutors office issued a three count murder warrant charging Darrel Jarvis with the kidnap-murder of Elizabeth Mojica, a Waterford Township party store cashier.

Jarvis, although ordered to serve 2 1/2 to 5 years in prison for a weapons charge, had been paroled May 17, 1976—eight months before his minimum sentence had been served.

This sad litany of nine tragic deaths did not have to occur.

Had the above defendants been made to serve just their minimum sentence for their last crime of violence all of these victims would be alive today because their attackers would have still been in prison.

Only the limitations of space in this article prevent me from detailing further homicides, robberies and vicious rapes of residents of Oakland County committed by parolees who have been recklessly released from prison before their minimum terms had been served.

These innocent citizens have been victimized by a parole board whose expressed philosophy is to return convicted felons, regardless of their crime, to society as quickly as possible.

My office has taken a strong stand against such practices of the Michigan Parole Board, especially the objectionable practice of reducing the minimum sentence of a convicted felon serving a prison term for a crime of violence by the automatic application of "time off for good behavior."

If a car thief, a bad check artist or a shoplifter is paroled early, society can possibly tolerate that.

But when dangerous felons, with long criminal records cataloging a history of violent criminal activity, are released many years early before their minimum time has been served, then it is time for the public to demand a halt to such practices.

The reckless policies of the Michigan Parole Board should have been corrected by the Michigan Legislature.

Parole reform legislation that would require convicted felons of violent crimes to serve at least their minimum sentence has been pending in Lansing since 1973, but the Michigan Legislature has turned a deaf ear.

Parole reform, they say, is not a priority. If nine lives in my county is not a priority, then I don't know what is!

Our society and our state cannot long survive the crisis of violence that we have experienced over the last few years.

Since 1960, murder has increased in Michigan by 185 percent; rape has increased by 289 percent; aggravated assault by 257 percent and armed robbery has increased by a frightening 479 percent.

In order to deter violent crime and put an abrupt halt to the unprecedented violence which threatens all of us, we must make crime very risky for those who engage in it.

Today, not only is there no certainty of punishment for crime in Michigan, there is no punishment at all!

For the 622,880 felonies reported in Michigan during 1975—for all of that violence and all of those victims who suffered those felonies—6,218 people were incarcerated.

For every 10,000 burglaries committed, twenty-four burglars are incarcerated. (And, ironically, the small number of perpetrators that we are successful in apprehending, convicting, and incarcerating are now gratuitously being released early from prison because of time off for good behavior.)

I NEED YOUR HELP to reverse the trend toward more and more violence.

Because the Michigan Legislature has turned a callous and deaf ear, there is only one alternative left for a frustrated and crime riddled public: we the people must change the law through the extraordinary legislative process called INITIATIVE PETITION.

I intend, with your support, to place a Parole Reform Question on the next general election ballot in 1978. If I can obtain the requisite number of signatures on a petition the question appearing on the ballot in 1978 will be:

Should a convicted felon of a violent crime be required to serve at least his minimum sentence before he becomes eligible for parole?

I cannot gather the signatures by myself. I need the support of each and every citizen who is concerned about the level of crime in our community.

I am asking for 4,000 volunteers, each to give me a personal commitment—a pledge—that he/she will go out and obtain just 100 signatures on the state-wide petition and then return the completed petitions to me within 150 days.

Changing the policies for the Michigan Parole Board to require that a person convicted of a crime of violence (murder, armed robbery, rape, kidnapping and sexual assault) to serve at least his minimum sentence before he becomes eligible for parole will not end violent crime. But it is a place to start!

If you are willing to circulate petitions and obtain at least 100 signatures, please fill in this card and return in an envelope to:

L. BROOKS PATTERSON
OAKLAND COUNTY PROSECUTOR
1200 NORTH TELEGRAPH ROAD
PONTIAC, MICHIGAN 48053

☐ I will circulate parole reform petitions and I pledge to gather at least 100 signatures.

☐ I will also attempt to enlist others to circulate petitions.

Cost burden shifted

Tax law changes affect '76 and '77 filings

(This is the first in a series of articles offering advice on filing 1976 income tax returns, prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

The Tax Reform Act of 1976 made a number of changes in the tax laws, not all of which apply to 1976 incomes, and in many cases, changes that will increase tax revenues are applied retroactively while those that give Western Wayne County taxpayers a break take effect later.

Also, the net effect of the changes will be to increase the tax burden on those persons with higher incomes while easing it somewhat for those in the lower brackets.

For example, the new law seeks to curb "tax shelters", which have brought deductions for costs that in some cases were larger than an investor's actual investment. Under a new "at risk" provision, losses in such ventures are allowed only to the extent of the individuals investment at the close of the tax year.

At the other end of the income scale, working parents who must pay someone to look after their children get more generous tax assistance, if their combined taxable incomes are under $8,000. (For those with taxable incomes between $8,000 and $35,000 the new law normally is less generous than the old one.)

According to the MACPA, some of the other changes in the new law that apply to 1976 income tax returns, are:

If you own a vacation home you rent out for part of the year, your deductions for depreciation, maintenance, utilities and the like now cannot exceed rental income, if you use the house yourself for more than two weeks a year or more than 10 percent of the number of days it was rented, whichever is greater.

Another big break for most taxpayers is the continuation and expansion of the general income tax credit. Last year, the credit was $30 for each taxpayer and dependent. That has been raised to the greater of $35 or 2 percent of the first $9,000 of taxable income. In other words, a maximum credit of $180 for those with incomes of at least $9,000 and fewer than six exemptions.

For most of us, the sick pay exclusion which protected from taxation part of wages received while off the job because of illness is ended. The maximum weekly sick pay exclusion of $100 now is available only to taxpayers who are under 65 and who are totally and permanently disabled.

In addition, the disabled person whose annual income, including the disability payments, exceeds $15,000, has his weekly benefits cut. When he reaches the $20,200 level, the benefits are reduced to zero.

The provision formerly referred to as "retirement income credit" has been renamed "credit for the elderly", and the rules for claiming it have been liberalized. For example, all types of income, such as that from investments, now can be partially protected from taxation. The maximum income base against which the 15 percent credit can be claimed has been increased to $2,500 for single persons and married couples filing jointly where both are over 65, it's $3,750.

One category of wage earner who will be hit hard by the new tax law is the American citizen employed abroad. The amount of his earnings excluded from taxation has been cut to $15,000. On top of that, he no longer can claim credit for income taxes paid to foreign governments on the excluded amount.

Often, persons whose incomes of less than $8,000 make them eligible for the earned income credit, good for a cash refund of up to $400, are on welfare. The threat of losing part or all of the welfare money caused many individuals to forego the credit. To correct this, the new law provides that the earned income credit does not affect a person's eligibility for federally assisted welfare.

The CPA group also points out that the new tax law increases the minimum standard deduction or low income allowance from $1,600 to $1,700 for single persons and from $1,900 to $2,100 for married persons filing a joint return.

In an effort to simplify tax preparation for taxpayers who do their own returns, the new law has cut the 12 tax tables formerly in use to only four. The new tables can be used for taxable income up to $20,000 and are applicable whether you itemize or take the standard deduction. The term "simplification" is misleading in this instance, however, since the reduction in the number of tables means the taxpayer must do more of his own arithmetic.

The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests, however, that as in the past, if your income is about average and you had no unusual financial transactions (home purchase, inheritance, divorce, etc.) during the year you should be able to prepare your own tax return.

Griffin pushes bill to end OSHA woes

Seeking to aid farmers and small businessmen, Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan is pushing legislation to help them comply with the Occupational Health and Safety Act (OSHA) without triggering enforcement.

"We want to get this legislation passed this year," said Griffin, the state's senior senator. "We think that this year we can win."

Last year the House of Representatives passed a similar measure, but the proposal, co-sponsored by Griffin, did not win Senate approval.

The legislation would permit employers subject to OSHA requirements to consult with the Labor Department on what Griffin termed "the confusing, complex and highly technical" provisions of the law.

Currently, the Labor Department is prohibited, under OSHA, from providing on-site educational and consultative services except as part of an enforcement proceeding.

Lifting that ban, said Griffin, "would be especially helpful to those small businesses that are unable to hire private consultants" to advise them on OSHA compliance.

"The thrust of this bill is encourage smaller employers to seek advice on safety requirements necessary to comply with OSHA standards without fear of inviting OSHA penalties," he added.

If consultants found "imminent dangers," however, they would of course notify enforcement authorities to protect the workers involved.

"I know many of the farmers and small businessmen in Michigan personally, and I know they would not consciously subject their employees to dangerous or hazardous work situations," Griffin said. "But I think we should do everything we can to help them comply with the law."

He described the bill as "a step toward fulfilling the purpose of OSHA, which is to provide the safest possible work place for the 65 million employees" covered by the act nationwide.

"On the whole this measure should result in more informed employers and thus improve compliance with OSHA standards," he added.

Now reduces tar to one milligram

In November, the ultra-low "tar" NOW cigarette was reduced in "tar" content from two to one milligram. This change reflects an increasing preference among a number of American smokers for a maximum reduction in the "tar" level of cigarettes.

Those brands containing 15 milligrams of "tar" or less, has grown over 44 percent this year. According to industry observers, low "tar" brands could account for more than 30 percent of all cigarette sales in the next five years.

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. is the nation's largest cigarette manufacturer, with more than 33 percent of the market. The company accounts for more than 40 percent of all low "tar" cigarettes sold. Its Vantage Brand is the No. 1 low "tar" cigarette in the country.

The 1 milligram NOW comes in a crush-proof box and is available in both filter and menthol versions.

Mechanic tests set

The state's first tests for certifying automobile and light truck mechanics are scheduled for late next month, according to Secretary of State Richard Austin.

Austin is urging mechanics to take their examinations as soon as possible in order to be eligible for certification by Jan. 1, 1978. That is the date when every repair garage in the state must employ at least one certified mechanic in each repair category it offers.

The first tests will cover four specialty categories of auto and light truck service—engine repair, engine tune-up, front end steering and brakes and braking system.

Persons wishing to take the tests must register before Feb. 4. Complete information about the exams and registration forms are available at all Secretary of State branch offices, as well as directly from the Secretary of State's Bureau of Automotive Regulation, Lansing 48918, or by calling (517) 373-9060.

The engine repair and engine tune-up tests will be given on Feb. 26, while the front end and steering and brakes and braking systems tests will be given March 5.

There are a total of eight tests in the area of auto and light truck repairs. The remaining four—automatic transmission, manual transmission, electrical systems and air conditioning—will be offered in the spring.

Board chairman says

Task force to consider hospital changes

The chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners will appoint a community task force to consider a report by the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council which calls for sweeping changes at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland.

Commissioner John Barr said the task force will include representatives of business and labor, the medical and related professions, government and the hospital council. He added that the panel also will include representatives of management and labor at the out-county medical complex.

Through the years, questions have been raised as to the efficiency and effectiveness of the hospital," Barr said. "The report by the hospital council gives us a vehicle for examining these questions and developing some answers."

The council conducted its study at the request of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The board had asked the council to determine the potential impact of a new policy of requiring the medically indigent to go to the county hospital in Westland for non-emergency treatment.

'The report by the hospital council gives us a vehicle for examining these questions and developing some answers..'

In its report, the hospital council recommended that the new policy not be implemented. The report then raised major questions about the present management structure, functions and costs at Wayne County General Hospital, and the future role of the facility.

The council also recommended that the county "immediately undertake a total review and reassessment of Wayne County General Hospital...and what basic changes might be made at this juncture to help the hospital and the county to meet their responsibilities to the community in a fiscally sound and cost-effective manner."

It was recommended that the Board of Commissioners consider various alternatives for achieving a new hospital organization structure "better geared to the needs of the hospital and the community it serves rather than to the goals, processes and policies of county government."

"Possible options include establishing a new non profit corporation (either as a Public Benefit Corporation or a new voluntary hospital corporation) the sale, lease or donation of the hospital to an existing organization; establishing a 'hospital authority'; or retaining the hospital as a department of government with a guarantee of full authority and responsibility for its governing board and administration," the report stated.

Noting that an average of only about 60 percent of the general hospital's 421 beds are occupied, the hospital council suggested that part of the general hospital be converted to a psychiatric facility and that the present "relatively obsolete" building now housing the 120-bed mental hospital be closed.

If other alternatives do not resolve the cost-effectiveness problem, the report said, "the possibility of corporate merger of the general hospital with one or more other hospitals; or, if all else fails the possibility of closing the institution and purchasing hospital services from other institutions" should be considered.

The hospital council also recommended that the hospital consider:

- Becoming the trauma (major

- injury) center for Western Wayne County;
- Decentralizing ambulatory care services "as a method of meeting community need while simultaneously increasing demand for its inpatient program."
- Permitting salaried staff physicians from the University of Michigan Medical School to see private patients and keep at least a portion of the resultant fees;
- Permitting physicians with private practices to be on the hospital staff and have admitting privileges "on a selective basis"....;
- Adding services in head and neck cancer, gastro intestinal intensive care, pulmonary intensive care, physical medicine and substance abuse and poison control;
- Implementing a deliberate and professional community relations program to attract the attention, interest and loyalty of potential patients;
- Identifying hospital programs in which there is "overcapacity" in the community and initiate efforts toward their potential consolidation with other hospitals;
- Initiating joint discussions with union leaders, department heads and employees "to develop a common understanding and effort toward the resolution of the hospital's problem;" and
- Forming a long-range planning committee at the hospital to develop a clear statement of purpose for the hospital "as well as initiate an evaluation of all of the alternative methods of increasing demand for the hospital's services and/or curtailing its programs".

- Reviewing the hospital's management setup "to assure that all modern methodologies for improving management and reducing costs are available for application within the institution."

Wayne County General Hospital is a multi-building complex located on a large campus at Michigan Avenue and Merriman Road in Westland.

The county board of Auditors has estimated that the hospital this year will cost $52.6 million to operate and take in $40.4 million in payments for services, leaving a $12.2 million deficit to be made up out of county general funds.

Barr pointed out that in recent years the Board of Commissioners has retained outside consultants and taken other steps to improve the hospital operation.

He said the report and recommendations from the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council "will add impetus to our efforts so that better health care can be provided to the people of Wayne County at a cost savings to the County taxpayers".

Registration opens for adult education

Romulus residents interested in returning to high school or expanding their knowledge can register now through Monday for the Romulus Community Schools' Adult Education Program.

A wide variety of high school completion courses, including the traditional credit classes of English, mathematics, history and science, are available. Credit also can be earned for technical classes in such areas as medical careers, metric system, typing and accounting.

Other course offered during the session are a reading improvement program and a literature class which will explore ancient legends and mythology.

In addition adults also can enroll in the GED study classes to prepare for the State High School Equivalency (GED) test. The adult high school completion program also is approved by the Veterans Administration, and veterans are able to obtain financial benefits while studying in the credited programs.

A series of non-credit activities also is available in such areas as cake decorating, pottery, cross-country skiing, belly dancing, small engine repair, basic auto skills, stained glass, welding, dog obedience, needlecraft, first aid and Spanish.

Information on the winter semester lineup through the Adult Education Program, can be obtained by calling 941-0610.

The Community School Program also operates a Head Start project for 3- and 4-year-old income-eligible youngsters. Information about income standards can be obtained by calling the above listed telephone number.

Late registration for all Community Education classes will be held Monday through next Friday.

Adult student Josie Lawrence of Romulus works intently on an accounting problem during a class offered through the Romulus Community Schools' Adult Education Program. Free classes are offered to adults wishing to finish school. For further information call 941-0610.

Board considers special programs to provide jobs and attract funding

Two special programs to provide jobs, attract federal dollars and improve environmental conditions have been approved by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

One program joins the County Office for Industrial and Commercial Development and the Planning Commission in a $100,000 year-long economic study using federal funds and both federal and county staff services. The other measure is a Civil Service proposal that establishes a new Job Services Careers Program to be administered in conjunction with the county Office of Manpower.

The joint Industrial and Commercial Development-Planning Commission program will have technical assistance from the U.S. Economic Development Administration and is organized to promote more job opportunity through development of increased industrial growth in the county.

Among its objectives is a series of local or district economic development corporations, or a single county-wide development group as an alternative.

According to the project plan, it also will try to assure public access to industrial areas and utilize underdeveloped facilities better, as well as conserve and enhance both natural and manmade resources.

Consultants from major Michigan universities, and representatives from the fields of economics, business, ecology, law and labor also will contribute to the joint project.

The new Job Services Careers Program is meant to give priority consideration to the jobless who have for long periods failed to find permanent work.

Under the program, the regular entry-level clerical, custodial and some technical positions in the county will be re-allocated to a lower-salaried class of public service aid to expand employment opportunity.

Participation in the program will be voluntary on the part of county department heads or other appointing authorities, those who are responsible for the hiring and dismissal of employees under their supervision.

As now planned, the public service aid positions will pay a beginning salary of $8,000 per year and increase at 6-month intervals up to a maximum $9,500 annually.

The Public Service Aid opportunity will remain in effect until the level of unemployment in the county falls below the national average, or below the average unemployment level in the Detroit area as defined by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Both of the special programs were approved by the commissioners Jan. 21.

Shakespeare revived

Members of the Hilberry Repertory Theatre of Wayne State University will add Shakespeare's "Othello" to its season's playbill next Wednesday, when it premiere's at the Hilberry Theatre. Michel Cullen will appear as Lago, while Walter Mason (right) will star in the title role as Othello. The first production of the Shakespearean tragedy by the graduate theatre group, the play will open Feb. 2 and continue in the repertory through April 30. Complete ticket and schedule information is available at the Theatre Box Office, located at the corner of Cass and Hancock, or by calling 577-2972.

Shrine Circus opens at State Fairgrounds

Seventeen acts, including the precision unicycle troupe of "The World Wheelers", will be under the "big top" when the 69th annual Detroit Shrine Circus opens at the State Fairgrounds on Feb. 4 for a 17-day engagement.

Appearing in the circus will be such acts as Blinko the Clown, Guy Gossing's 16 trained Bengal Tigers, King's Performing Elephants and the "Flying Lar Rays" trapeze act, as well as the "Wheelers", who recently returned from Italy after spending three months with the Circus Orfei in Rome.

(Tickets for the circus currently are on sale at the State Fairgrounds main ticket office. Prices range from $3 to $5 for weekend and Friday performances and $2.50 to $4.50 for weekday performances.

The circus rings will fill with entertainers twice daily at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. and at 10 a.m. Saturday. Shriners have planned the early afternoon performances for school children to permit them to return home during the daylight hours.

The circus is sponsored by the Detroit Moslem Temple of the North American Shrine, with its proceeds to be used for support of the activities of the Temple and its crippled children program.

The Temple provides sponsorship of handicapped children from the southeastern Michigan areas to receive care at the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled and Burn Children.

Weaved into the theme "An Old-Fashioned Circus", will be such acts as Hugo Zacchini, the human projectile who soars 175 feet through the air at 90 miles per hour after being shot from a cannon, and the Hortobagyi Troupe, seven springboard acrobats from Hungary.

Also among the entertainment will be the Lodi Duo, freehand acrobats who feature the "toe-to-toe" hang; the "Wheel of Destiny" with Barbara and Johnny Luxem using a giant whirling wheel to perform a variety of aerial feats; Randy and Sylvia who performs many acrobatic and balancing tricks atop a pole supported by Randy; and Lona's Trained Canines.

Also on the show bill will be Lamberti Jr., who performs a 1-finger stand; the Dynamic DeMille on the tight wire; the Reynolds Brothers who perform acrobatics on twin trapezes; Mickey's Chimps; the Hernandez Troupe a teeterboard act; and Mustafu the Clown.

Each show will be preceded by the "All-Shrine Pre-Circus Spectacular" parade of Shrine units.

Pianist and mimes appear with DSO

Italian pianist Michele Campanella and the Claude Kipnis Mime Theatre will be appearing with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in four concerts this coming weekend.

performance are during a pair of Young People's Concerts at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday and are the first appearances the troupe has made with the symphony.

The theatre will present two pantomimes, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" to the well known music of Paul Dukas, and "Le Boeuf le Toit", an improbable circus created to the music of Darius Milhaud.

The strictly musical works in the program include the overture's to Rossini's "William Tell" and two more circus pieces, Stravinsky's "Circus Polka" and Fucik's "Entrance of the Gladiators".

Claude Kipnis first came to the United States in 1966 for a 9-week engagement at New York's Theatre de Lys, and since then he and his troupe have completed consecutive national tours, including appearances at Chicago's Ravina Festival and at the famous Jacob's

Exhibit looks at cloth

Visitors to Henry Ford Museum's "Warp and Weft" exhibit now through Feb. 13 will not only see how their ancestors made wool and flax fibers, they'll have a chance to try some of the steps themselves.

The exhibit traces the evolution of wool and flax from fiber to fabric. It takes its name from the fabric threads — warp (threads running lengthwise in a piece of cloth) and weft (horizontal threads interlaced through the warp).

The museum's exhibit makes use of diagrams, photographs, artifacts, live demonstrations and opportunities for visitor participation to tell a complete story of textile processing in an earlier America.

Staff members and representatives of local spinning and weaving guilds will be on hand throughout to explain and-or demonstrate each step.

"Warp and Weft" begins with fiber preparation. On the wool side, visitors follow the fiber through the shearing, washing, carding and spinning processes. Along the way, they can test their skills at carding the wool fibers and spinning thread on a wooden drop spindle, one of the earliest known devices for converting fleece into yarn.

In addition, they can watch experienced spinners at work on 18th and 19th century spinning wheels and see how wool was once dyed using natural dyes made from flowers, weeds, roots, barks and nutshells.

Comparable steps in the transformation of flax into linen also are highlighted in this exhibit. Diagrams, illustrations and demonstrations follow flax from harvesting through retting (rotting the inner core), rippling (combing to remove seeds), braking (beating) the fibers, scutching (knocking out the core), hackling (combing) and, finally, dressing the distaff for the spinning wheel.

Both fibers now are ready for weaving.

In the weaving area of the exhibit, visitors learn how a loom is warped so threads become patterned cloth. Here, too, 10 small table looms stand in readiness for visitors to try their own hands at weaving fabric. Woven coverlets in a variety of patterns from the museum collections complete the display.

RESTAURANT REVIEW

....The Fogcutter

The accent is on family dining featuring sizzling steaks and succulent seafood. The place, Howard Parsons' three year old Fogcutter.

The Fogcutter, located at 3011 E. Michigan Avenue in Ypsilanti Twp., formerly called the Cock and Bull, seats about 200 persons and is complete with family dining area, quiet bar and a cozy little room with fireplace, called the Captain's Gallery.

The bar and the Captain's gallery is removed from the dining area for the benefit of those who wish to bring the entire family.

The entire restaurant is tastefully decorated with paneled walls and interesting seafaring items displayed.

The dining area features comfortable tables covered with bright tablecloths and flickering candles.

In the center of this clean dining room is the salad bar, providing you with a delicious assortment of tasty additions to your salad. Bacon bits, croutons, chick peas, smoked cheddar cheese, and your choice of three salad dressings. Also at the salad bar is a large collection of relishes and other good things like potato salad, creamed cucumbers, cole slaw and pickled cauliflower.

Our table for six was made up quickly and Judy, our waitress, was at the table in short order for our drink.

Declining drinks, we ordered immediately. The kids ranging in age from 8 to 14-years-old, ordered hamburger, chicken, and a veal cutlet. Mom chose the filet and I picked the delmonico steak.

At the salad bar we began our excursion through good taste.

On top of the mounds of crisp salad we piled the tasty additions. Two plates were necessary to get a sample of each available-item.

The kids were overjoyed, with eyes as large as the dishes they were filling.

During the salad Judy came back twice to ask if everything was OK, and it definitely was.

Two of the kids finished their attack on the salad and returned to the bar for more, all included in the price of the meal we had ordered.

While waiting for the main course, I browsed through the menu containing such things as Deep fried oysters, Fried clam dinner, Deep amandine jumbo shrimp, Fried scallops, Prime Rib, Flaming Shis Kebob, Homemade meatloaf, Lobster tails, Stuffed flounder, Red snapper and on and on.

After a short wait, Judy brought the dinner to the table amid the ear-to-ear grins of the kids.

I had ordered my steak medium rare, and it was just right. Mom had ordered her steak the same, and it was cooked to her specifications. A survey of the kids revealed that their dishes were also very good.

After the meal that was quickly and deliciously prepared, I ordered dessert for the kids. Cherry cheese cake, Chocolate chiffon pie and Vanilla ice cream were the goodies ordered.

CONCLUSION:

A nice comfortable restaurant providing an excellent menu of fine food, served with courtesy and speed. The Fogcutter, in addition to a fine dinner menu, provides a fine luncheon menu for the bustling businessman. Their banquet room seating 150 is an additional attraction. Our rating, a well deserved AAA.

Lawyers can print biographical data about themselves

Michigan has become the first state to permit attorneys to publicly list specified biographical, educational and professional information about themselves.

A plan to have this information published in the classified section of the telephone directory, passed by the Representative Assembly of the State Bar of Michigan at its Spring 1976 meeting, was approved recently by the Michigan Supreme Court.

The court's decision to change the Code of Professional Responsibility to allow general disclosure of such information means that the public now will be able to find in the Yellow Pages, besides the name, firm name, business address, and telephone number now permitted:

- The lawyer's age and date of admission to practice in Michigan and other states,
- His office hours,
- His fluency in a foreign language,
- His areas of concentration in the practice of law, and
- His fee for an initial conference — or that he does not charge a fee for that consultation.

Of the last two recommendations, the first is dependent on amendment of the Code of Professional Responsibility covering designation. The Bar's Representative Assembly is expected to consider a specific recommendation to the Court at its next meeting, April 2.

The second is dependent on the Yellow Pages' accepting price information. Currently, the Yellow Pages carry no price advertising, but the Bar is presently holding discussions with Michigan Bell on the issue.

State Bar President William G. Reamon of Grand Rapids called the Supreme Court's approval of the State Bar plan "a major gain for the public interest."

"Finding a good lawyer for a particular need has rarely been a problem for business of professional people, who have many contacts, anyway, with lawyers — professionally and socially," Reamon said. "Unfortunately, this is not always the case for the average person.

"By making it simpler for most people to find a lawyer to meet their particular need, this new information will broaden the availability of qualified legal services to the public.

"It is our hope that other professions eventually will follow suit and also permit their members to disclose to the public information that will make it easier for all people to make an informed choice."

The State Bar of Michigan's toll-free Lawyer Referral Service will be continued. Persons in need of a lawyer, but who do not know one can find an attorney who will charge to more than $10 for an initial consultation by calling 1-800-292-7850.

Sexton and Co. honored

The John Sexton and Co. division of Beatrice Foods Co. has received the Sanitation Honor Award from Beatrice Foods for superior plant sanitation last year, according to Wallace N. Rasmussen, Beatrice president and chief executive officer.

According to John Sexton and Co. general manager Larry L.

Wilson, the Sanitation Honor Award goes to divisions with an inspection score of at least 900 after two unannounced inspections during the year conducted by the American Sanitation Institute.

In addition, Beatrice divisions with inspection scores of 851 to 899 receive the Sanitation Award of Excellence.

ATTENTION RESIDENTS OF ROMULUS

Due to abnormal weather conditions, the Romulus Water Department recommends that its customers take precautionary steps in preventing water line freeze-ups. A record number of frozen water lines and water meters has led to interruptions in service and great inconvenience to the customer.

It is suggested that you insulate your water pipes. On nights the temperatures drop to 5 degree or less, a good practice would be to let one faucet in the building run very slowly. But, by all means, protect your pipes and meter from direct exposure to the cold weather.

If your meter freezes and starts to leak, call the water department. If you fail to get water, turn on your faucets and apply heat to the water lines. Should this fail, call the water department. Your cooperation in determining where the problem is will help to ease the overload of work placed upon the metermen, and workers of the Department of Public Works.

RESOLUTION 77-023
WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus, has conducted a review intended to develop a consistent and rational policy designed to guide the City in the development of private and public land, within its boundaries; and
WHEREAS: The City has developed a plan which it believes outlines the general goals the City seeks to achieve. These goals are:
1) To improve the physical involvement of the community as a setting for human activities, to make it more functional, aesthetic, decent, healthful, interesting, and effective.
2) To promote the public interest, the interest of the community at large rather than the interest of individuals or special groups within the community.
3) To facilitate the democratic determination and implementation of community policies and physical development, by placing the responsibility for determining policies with the City Council and by providing an opportunity for citizen participation, the plan facilitates the democratic process.
4) To inject long range consideration into the determination of short range actions.
5) To bring professional and technical knowledge into the process of making political decisions concerning the physical development of the community; and
WHEREAS: The Planning Commission for the City of Romulus has advertised and held a Public Hearing for the purpose of Public discussion with various community organizations, groups and-or individuals to take testimony concerning various proposals and objectives contained in the plan in compliance with Section 8 of Public Act 285, or 1931, as amended; and
WHEREAS: Subsequent to the holding of said Public Hearing, and the amending of the proposed plan, as a result of input provided at said Public Hearing, the Planning Commission for the City of Romulus did on the 20th day of December, 1976 adopt the Master Plan for the City of Romulus and recommended to the City Council that said body consider and approve the Master Plan as the development policy for the City of Romulus.
NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the City of Romulus that it does herewith and hereby adopt the 1977 Master Plan as a development guide for the City of Romulus.
BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the text of the Master Plan be filed in the office of the City Clerk.

During 1977 session

House GOP tags anti-crime bills as priority

House Republicans consider anti-crime legislation, job opportunity improvement and state spending and program controls as top priority matters for 1977, according to GOP Leader Dennis Cawthorne of Muskegon.

Meat loaf, lasagne appear on menus

Entrees of baked meat loaf, Italian lasagne and oven-fried chicken are the menus that will be posted in the Van Buren and Lincoln Consolidated School districts next week.

On tap Monday for students in Van Buren's elementary schools are soup, pizza, vegetable, icy bird and milk, followed by juice, cheeseburgers on buns, french fries, fruit, pudding and milk Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the bill of fare will be cold meat, cheese and lettuce served in pita bread, with side dishes of soup, fruit, pie and milk. Next Thursday the menu will be pizza, vegetable, cake and milk, with juice, grilled cheese sandwiches, vegetable, fruit cobbler and milk rounding out the week.

In the junior high schools, the menu Monday will be soup, hamburgers on bun, tator tots, fruit Jell-O, icy bird and milk, with beef-aroni, bread and butter, cake, fruit and milk slated for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the main entree will be pizzaburgers on buns, with side dishes of french fried potatoes, soup, fruit Jell-O, pudding and milk.

Next Thursday the students will be dining on baked meat loaf with mashed potatoes and gravy, vegetable, bread and butter, fruit, cobbler and milk, while juice, Italian lasagne, vegetable, bread and butter, fruit Jell-O, cake and milk will cap the week.

The alternate menu selections will be doubleburgers on Monday, Coney Island foot-longs on Tuesday, doubleburgers with cheese next Wednesday, melted ham and cheese sandwiches next Thursday and Belleville burgers next Friday. The side dishes will be french fries or tator gems, dessert and milk.

In Lincoln Consolidated's Early Elementary School, the menu Monday will be spaghetti, lettuce salad, rolls, chilled fruit and milk, followed by chili and crackers, apple salad, orange juice, cinnamon rolls and milk.

Next Wednesday the cafeteria will be serving oven-fried chicken, potatoes and gravy, peas and carrots, rolls, fruit Jell-O and milk.

Next Thursday the lineup will be tacos with lettuce and tomatoes, green beans, cake and milk, with fish on buns, cabbage salad, orange juice, ice cream and milk rounding out the week.

financing, political reform, welfare reform and a couple of environmental measures as important to members of his caucus.

"Crime probably is the major problem in Michigan today," he said. "It has reached intolerable proportions in urban areas and is expanding into rural communities at a rapid rate. The legislature must toughen our laws and give judges and prosecutors new tools to combat this rising tide."

Cawthorne listed a package of bills which he feels will help accomplish this objective:

—Revision of the juvenile code to give judges appropriate authority and discretion in handling cases of delinquency, neglect and abuse.

—Amending current law which permits accumulation of "good time" (time off for good behavior) so a convicted criminal may be released before serving even the minimum sentence.

—Changing the method of granting good time to a flat five days per month.

—Restrict the bail rights of persons convicted of certain violent crimes while they are awaiting sentencing or appeal.

—Adopt the concept of presumptive sentencing which sets specific penalties for specific crimes. Judges would have limited discretion to raise or lower sentences, if certain mitigating or aggravating conditions affecting an individual case were present.

An improved job market is itself a deterrent to crime, especially for young persons. Cawthorne continued. "I expect most Republicans will support a new youth employment act to make it easier for minors to secure employment," he said. "Also, a proposal for state subsidy of the minimum wage where necessary for a job to exist will be offered."

House Republicans remain committed to a total revision of the state's workers' compensation law to both improve benefits and eliminate abuses, Cawthorne went on.

And he expects the state budget to again be a critical subject.

"Republicans will oppose any effort to increase the state income tax unless for some reason an increase is shown to be absolutely necessary," Cawthorne added. "However, on the basis of late information available to us, it appears that existing revenue sources will be more than sufficient to meet state needs in the coming fiscal year."

"We remain committed to careful evaluation of state-funded programs through use of the 'sunset' concept."

He was one of the first legislators to advocate state sunset laws, which would set expiration dates for programs which would have to be extended by the legislature if it could be convinced they are accomplishing their objectives.

The budget stabilization concept unveiled by House Republicans during the last term will be pushed strongly, he indicated.

"I believe budget stabilization should be enacted as early as possible in 1977, and we intend to make that one of our highest priorities," Cawthorne said.

Other matters mentioned by the GOP leader included corrections to the state's new single business tax, education financing reform to include allowing local school districts the option of increasing their personal income and business taxes in exchange for a property tax reduction, completion of political reform measures begun last year and welfare reform. He predicted there would be GOP support for reasonable legislation in the areas of wetlands preservation, land use and redlining.

"House Republicans plan to be especially aggressive in presenting alternative programs to the Democrats' proposals in 1977," Cawthorne said. "We will be carefully examining the executive office program as well and where possible will give those bills enthusiastic support. But our major effort will be to make an independent contribution to the 79th Legislative Session."

Campaign Fund designation will benefit 1980 elections

Taxpayers still can designate to a Presidential Election Campaign Fund, this time for the 1980 election, according to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

As with the 1976 Campaign Fund when taxpayers designated approximately $95 million to eligible presidential candidates, designating to the 1980 fund does not increase the amount of tax paid or decrease the amount of refund due. To designate a dollar of their taxes, taxpayers merely check the "Yes" box on Form 1040 or 1040A.

The forms also have a "No" box to be checked by those who don't wish to make the designation. On joint returns, husband and wife individually can choose whether or not to designate by checking the appropriate box provided for each of the taxpayers.

For additional information on the 1980 Campaign Fund and on tax deductions and credits for political contributions, area taxpayers can fill out the handy coupon in their tax packages, or contact their nearest IRS office for a free copy of Publication 585, "Voluntary Tax Methods to Help Finance Political Campaigns."

Austin urges 'X' to finance state's Campaign Fund

Secretary of State Richard Austin, whose office is responsible for election administration, is encouraging Michigan taxpayers to participate in the State Campaign Fund by exercising the option which will allocate part of their 1976 state income tax to the new fund.

Michigan is one of the first states in the nation to adopt a system providing public funds for use in campaigns for election of governor.

Austin pointed out that an important aspect of the state's new campaign financing law is reflected on Michigan's 1976 state income tax returns as a check-off option. It is Item 5b on the 1976 MI-1040, Michigan Income Tax Return.

"This does not add anything to your taxes, and it does not reduce the amount of any refund you may have coming," he said.

To participate, "you simply check the appropriate square on the first page of your state income tax form. This will indicate that you want $2 of your state tax to go into the fund. On joint returns, taxpayers may allocate a combined total of $4," he explained.

This is similar to the federal system for public funding in presidential elections. In Michigan, the State Campaign Fund will be maintained by the State Treasurer and will be used for the first time in 1978, to aid candidates on a matching basis in the next election for governor. Candidates for other offices will not benefit.

Officers installed were Worthy Advisor, Sylvia Carey; Worthy Associate Advisor, Gloria Girard; Charley, La Verna Arnett; Hope, Libby Greubel, and Faith, Norma McDonald. Others included Recorder, Susan Carey; Treasurer, Pamela Clark; Chaplain, Debbie Smendra; Drill Leader, Pamela Bankert; Love, Lori Williams; Religion, Denise Welt; Nature, Charlotte McCarthy; Immortality, Roberta Welt; Fidelity, Rhonda Mayfield; Patriotism, Sandy Hillan; Service, Kathy Griess; Confidential Observer, Janet Patterson, and Outer Observer, Kim Alspaugh.

After the installation of the Worthy Advisor, the soloist sang, "What the World Needs Now" and "I Found the Answer."

Members of the new Advisory Board who were installed were: Anita Nicholson W.M.; Harold Clayton W.P.; and Nancy Carey, Linda Clayton, Vincent Goodnuff, Connie Gubaci, Le Dehlla Hall, Elizabeth James, Walter James, Ruth McAtee, Margaret McDonald, Florence McKelvey, Debbie McKnight, Roberta Pond, Rose Ann Welt, Mother Advisor.

The Mother Advisor presented the retiring Worthy Advisors' jewel to Roberta Welt and the Bible to the new Worthy Advisor, Sylvia Carey; also Merit Bars to several members.

France McAtee, a member of the retiring Advisory Board, presented Rose Ann Welt with her Past Mother Advisors' jewel.

The new Worthy Advisor chose for her theme, "Love"; Colors, red and white; song "The Bible Tells Me So"; and her motto, 1 Corinthians 13:7,13.

Following the formal closing, refreshments were served in the dining room.

Girl Scout cookies on sale

In order to interest city officials in the upcoming Girl Scout Cookie Sale, Kim Mitchell of Troop 221 (left) visited the Romulus City Hall and City Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz (right) Luci Chambers, Field Director for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council (center), was on hand for the occasion. The sale, which gets underway Feb. 1, will feature five different varieties of cookies. Orders may be placed with any area Girl Scout.

Becky, Suzie meet Beach Boys

Becky Tontalo and Suzanne Stabnau, two Belleville teen-agers, have some very happy memories and lots of pictures from the recent concert of the Beach Boys at Olympia Stadium in Detroit.

The two girls, who have been working on tans with the help of sunlamps, evidently looked like a couple of "California girls", Becky said, since they also dressed in cut-offs and California T-shirts for the occasion.

People in the audience as well as those promoting the show mistook the pair for part of the Beach Boys' entourage and treated them accordingly. The girls had no trouble slipping backstage prior to the concert where they took part in a pre-show party and where they personally met the rock stars, Denny Wilson, Carl Wilson, Mike Love and Alan Jardine, and the fellows who work with them.

Becky and Suzie were also interviewed by Newsweek magazine and during the Beach Boys' performance were picked up in the spotlight by managers of the show.

It was particularly memorable, Becky said, since they were treated so nicely by everyone concerned.

Fireplace, although homey, does not save fuel, money

A fire in the fireplace, glowing with friendliness . . . It is one of the nicest things about the winter season that saves energy. Right?

Wrong, according to home energy consultant Doris Cross.

It generally is thought that a fireplace adds warmth to a room and saves on fuel bills, but fireplaces as heating sources are very deceptive, she said.

The flue draws a large amount of air through the hearth and up the chimney. That air comes from inside the home and already has been heated by the furnace, which means that although the fireplace is heating the immediate area, it is also cooling the rest of the house by expelling heat through the chimney.

This heat loss can be reduced by lowering the thermostat or closing off the room in which the fireplace is located. Glass fireplace doors in place of screen can help also. Still better is a fireplace with an air duct from the floor of the fireplace to the outside. This allows air for combustion to be drawn from the outside, doing away with the reheating of indoor air.

German Chocolate inspires cake roll

Sweet Chocolate Sponge Roll with Coconut-Pecan Filling is the daughter of a very famous cake.

German Sweet Chocolate Cake inspired this dessert. Invented, some say, by homemakers in the south, German Sweet Chocolate Cake has buttery rich, mild chocolate cake layers and a soft and luscious Coconut-Pecan Filling. The cake has the same famous flavor combination — but in a little different form.

The cake is made with the same sweet cooking chocolate, but the method and ingredients make a sponge-type cake that behaves itself beautifully as a roll. The filling is the same smooth-eating, crunchy-textured combination of delicate flaked coconut, chopped pecans, egg yolks, vanilla, sugar, butter and evaporated milk. The finished cake roll is as impressive as show windows in European patisseries.

The Sweet Chocolate Sponge Roll is one of those beautifully basic cakes that take to many variations. Another time, when you want a lighter dessert to follow a very substantial main course, fill the roll with Fluffy Coconut Filling. Whipped topping mix makes this quick to do. The finished cake holds well refrigerated, making it another ideal "do-ahead" dessert.

Sweet Chocolate Sponge Roll

- 1 package (4 oz.) sweet cooking chocolate
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 3/4 cup sifted cake flour
- 3/4 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 5 eggs (at room temperature)
- one-third cup granulated sugar
- Confectioners sugar
- Coconut-Pecan Filling or Fluffy Coconut Filling

Combine chocolate, water, and butter in saucepan; stir over low heat until mixture is well blended and smooth. Remove from heat and stir in soda. Cool. (Do not allow chocolate mixture to become too thick or set.)

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Beat eggs in large bowl at high speed of electric mixer or with rotary beater, adding granulated sugar gradually and beating until mixture becomes fluffy, thick, and light colored. Sift flour mixture over egg mixture and carefully fold in until blended. Then gradually fold in cooled chocolate mixture. Do not overmix. (Batter should be smooth and fluffy.) Pour into 15x10-inch jelly roll pan, which has been greased on bottom and sides, then lined on bottom with wax paper and greased again. Bake at 350 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes.

Pour into 15x10-inch jelly roll pan, which has been greased on bottom and sides, then lined on bottom with wax paper and greased again. Bake at 350 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes.

Turn cake out onto cloth, which has been sprinkled lightly with confectioners sugar. Quickly remove paper and trim off crisp edges of cake. Starting with short side, loosely roll up cake, rolling cloth up in cake. Place on rack with open edge down and cool about 1 hour. When cool, unroll, spread with desired filling, and roll up again, leaving end of cake underneath. Sprinkle with additional confectioners sugar. If using Fluffy Coconut Filling, refrigerate until ready to serve. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Coconut-Pecan Filling

- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1-one-third cups (about) flaked coconut
- 1 cup chopped pecans

Combine milk, sugar, egg yolks, butter and vanilla in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, about 12 minutes. Remove from heat. Add coconut and pecans. Cool until of spreading consistency, beating occasionally. Makes about 2-1/2 cups or enough to fill a 15x10-inch cake roll.

Fluffy Coconut Filling

- 1/2 cup cold milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 envelope whipped topping mix
- 1/4 cup flaked coconut

Combine milk, vanilla and whipped topping mix in deep narrow-bottom bowl; add coconut and blend thoroughly. Whip with rotary beater or at high speed of electric mixer until filling peaks. Continue whipping until filling is light, fluffy, and fully whipped, about 2 minutes longer. Tint with a few drops food coloring, if desired. Makes about 1-3/4 cups, or enough to fill a 15x10-inch cake roll.

4-H Challenge program set

Are you interested in high adventure, ecology, wilderness transportation, outdoor leadership, mountaineering and survival? Than Challenge is for you.

The 4-H Challenge program is designed to extend the participants reach by purposely providing physically and mentally stressful outdoor experiences under experienced and certified outdoor leaders.

Involvement helps youth gain confidence in their abilities to cope with stress, instill a new sensitivity for the environment and develop leadership skills.

Greg Bogdanski, certified Challenge leader, will explain what Challenge is all about and take membership applications for the new club from boys and girls ages 12 to 17 7 p.m. Feb. 9, at the 4-H Office in Wayne.

Due to the nature of this program, membership will be limited until additional certified leaders become available.

It is recommended that parents and guardians of boys and girls interested in this program also attend.

For further information contact the Wayne County 4-H Office at 721-6576.

Hawaii--great winter get-away for local pair

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Mr. and Mrs. James Sayre of Morton - Taylor Road returned home Jan. 14 after having spent the past eight days in Honolulu, Hawaii, where they attended the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Jim is a member of the Michigan Farm Bureau Board.

Guest speakers included Shirley Temple Black and Dr. John Hanna. While there they also enjoyed many interesting tours.

Mrs. Sayre's mother, Mrs. Glenn Wales of Ypsilanti, was a guest of her grandsons while their parents were away.

On Jan. 15, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road were among the many guests who attended the wedding of Sally Ann Brooks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brooks of Ypsilanti, and Jeffery Paul Koch at the First United Methodist Church in Ypsilanti. They also attended the reception and dinner at Roma Hall in Ann Arbor following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Harmony Lane were Sunday guests of the latter's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Pierce of Flint. Others present were the ladies' brothers, Don Johnson of Millington and Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson of Saginaw.

Marvin Meerse, who had been a patient for several weeks at Veterans Hospital in Ann Arbor, is now convalescing at the home of his sister, Mrs. Henry Sager of West Columbia Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emerson of Lansing were weekend guests of the former's parents, Mayor and Mrs. Justin Emerson of Madelon Street.

Recent luncheon guests of Mrs. Lavern Sayre of Ecorse Road were her brother, Stanley Woods of Deerfield, and a niece, Linda Amerman of Kansas City, Kans.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road were Tuesday afternoon callers on a friend, Mrs. Herschel Harless of Monroe.

Dinner guests on Thursday of last week of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Boldt of Roland Street were the latter's sister, Mrs. Lyle Cubberly of Ypsilanti, and her son and wife, S-Sgt. and Mrs. Lyle Cubberly with Laura and Benjamin, from Bossier City, La. The latter were enroute to Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois.

Saturday evening dinner guests of Mrs. Dorothy R. Kellas of Margery Street were her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Satterlee and son Bryant of Westland, and the former's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Satterlee and son, Jeffrey of Romulus.

Word has been received here by relatives and friends of the death of one-time resident, Mrs. Archie Smock of Wyandotte, on Jan. 15 at the age of 85 years. Services were held at the Nixon Funeral Home Jan. 19, with burial taking place in Hillside Cemetery. Mrs. Smock will be remembered here as the former Carrie Renton, the daughter of Andrew and Janette Alexander Renton.

In West Point style

At one of its regular meetings in 1956, the Senior Band Council of Belleville High School posed in its newly purchased uniforms. The scarlet and grey West Point style outfits replaced the old orange and black costume which the band had adopted in 1946. Under the direction of Richard Coffelt, the 1956-57 band council was comprised of Tamar Kirk (seated from left), Ella Pavelka, vice-president; Donald Dorsten, president; Richard Pitcher, secretary-treasurer, and Christine Stromme. Standing in the same order are Quentin Woomer, Ronald Blazek, Brian Walters, Robert Saunders and Kay Ellward. This photo is among the many collected by the Belleville Band Boosters for the 50th anniversary celebration of the Belleville High School Band.

At Belleville High School

Former director checks out 50 years of band uniforms

Editor's note: The following article was submitted by Richard Coffelt, former Belleville band director, who is now serving on a committee which is compiling data and pictures for the 50th anniversary of the Belleville High School Band. The Enterprise-Roman has been running a series of articles in commemoration of the event.

A history of the band uniform would need to begin with the history of the school colors — orange and black. In the 1922-23 "La Belle" school yearbook, mention is made of awarding an orange letter "B" for athletic endeavors. Orange and black as school colors is in the opening lines of the senior class poem in the 1923-24 yearbook.

In 1926 the five separate schools in the area — Tyler Street, Otisville, French Landing, Willow Run and Mud Street, were consolidated into the Van Buren School District. It was at this time that an official school song, colors and mascot (the tiger) became a part of the school scene. It is thought that these items originated from the ones used by Princeton University in New Jersey. John Myron was superintendent of schools at this time.

That same year, the first school band was organized at Belleville, the band uniform being made up of regular clothing in black and white. A year later, the school provided a cape of orange and black and a military overseas cap in black.

In 1939 new black trousers and black military hats replaced the white trousers or skirts and overseas caps while the orange and black caps remained to complete the uniform.

A complete new uniform was purchased by the school in 1946. Because of the war (World War II), orange and black cloth was not available and so compromise colors of navy blue and gold were chosen. The outfit consisted of a military style coat, trousers and hat all trimmed in gold with a gold braid worn on the left shoulder. Later a gold plastic belt for the coat and a gold plume for the hat were added.

The band had grown so much larger by 1955 that it became necessary to purchase new uniforms. The old sets would be used to outfit the growing junior high school band. Colors other than orange and black were suggested by the band director, Richard Coffelt. Since the junior and senior class colors were not orange and black it was thought that the band colors could also be different; the combination chosen being scarlet and grey.

The new costumes were designed in West Point style without tails on the coat. A shoulder patch with an orange and black tiger was incorporated on the jacket with "Belleville" spelled in gold on the sleeve of the jacket.

In 1973 a new scarlet and grey uniform in darker hues with black trim was purchased. The West Point mode remained with a modified tail on the coat. The front plate on the coat is reversible with a black outline white letter "B" on one side and "Belleville" spelled out on the shoulder in black. The hat is also altered, now with a half crown.

So it is that current bandmen at Belleville High School have come to be garbed in colors other than the school colors and in styles to befit the current times.

She's called Julie Lynn

There's a brand new sound being heard these late January days at the Flat Rock home of Michael and Susan Uhrin at 28126 Arsenal Street...that of their new daughter, Julie Lynn.

Their first child, she arrived Jan. 8 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. Her 1:41 p.m. birth weight was recorded at 6 lbs. - 10z.

She is the new granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Uhrin of Ecorse and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Shields of Belleville.

Bies family adds a son, Jason Mason

Four-year-old Kristin Bies is happily telling people about her new baby brother, Jason Mason Bies, who made his appearance during one of the coldest winters on record arriving at 12:51 p.m. on Jan. 18.

The new heir, who weighed in at 7 lbs. - 1 oz. at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, is the son of Jerry and Pat Bies of 136 Potter Dr., Belleville, and the grandson of Mrs. Dorothy M. Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bies, all of Belleville.

TALKING IT OUT with Harold Rediske UHT Memorial Funeral Home

We're Glad You Asked!

MILITARY AND FRATERNAL

When a veteran's military funeral and burial is required, there are specific ceremonies, equipment and procedures that must be adhered to — and exactly! We have the proper ceremonial equipment and are well versed in military protocol so that we can provide services "by the book" in honoring the veteran in his final hour.

Fraternal orders, such as the Masons, also have specific funeral requirements. We have conducted many funerals for members of fraternal and religious orders, so we are used to handling those rituals so important to the brotherhoods.

If you would like to have advance information regarding military requirements and veteran's funeral and burial expense allowances, or about the many fraternal order funerals we have conducted, just call or drop by. We invite you to counsel with our funeral specialists, be he Masonic, military, K or C, Elks or any of the other fine groups in the area.

Ferns: Easiest plant to grow

Greenery fits all decor

Contrary to opinion, tropical ferns are among the easiest and most satisfactory plants to grow in the house.

Ferns rank high among the world's perfect houseplants. Their graceful beauty compliments and decor—traditional or contemporary. Possibly because they can survive shade and tend to be insect- and disease-free, they frequently outlive other plants.

The Boston fern and its relative Fluffy Ruffles can be hung in a window instead of drapes, while upright ferns like the maiden-hair make good table accents.

Position ferns so their symmetry, which is part of their beauty, can be admired from all sides. Ferns are delicate and may bruise, if they touch another object, even other plants, so give them plenty of room. A quarter turn every month or so will encourage even growth.

The right size pot is essential for full healthy looking fern. Look at the root growth, not fronds, when choosing the proper size. A newly-potted fern should have an inch or less extra space all around the roots. Repot a fern when the soil becomes a root ball, well filled with roots. At this point go to a slightly larger pot.

Plastic planters help retain soil moisture so important to ferns. The carved clay design comes in a variety of attractive colors that can be used free standing or as a hanging planter. The drainage holes in the bottom and matching removable saucers allow essential drainage and prevent overwatering.

Ideally, ferns should have a moist soil, but not soaking wet. Never allow it to go completely dry. Once the roots become dry and the fronds start drooping, most ferns cannot be revived.

A thorough watering once a week is recommended. To water a fern, lift its fronds and pour water directly onto the soil. Once a month leach out harmful salts by soaking ferns in a tub of water for several hours.

Ferns love humidity, so mist them daily. Grouping several together will increase humidity and help them thrive. Bathrooms are a natural place for ferns—the moisture and indirect light will keep most ferns happy.

In general ferns appreciate warmth and relish fresh air, but not drafts. Most are happiest with temperatures of 70 to 75 degrees during the day and 55 to 60 degrees at night.

Light is important, but bright sunlight is often too harsh, so try an east or west window. Most ferns can survive under incandescent light, but they need 12 to 16 hours daily.

Ferns need a porous soil or a fibrous growing medium. Equal parts of a packaged soil and peat moss is ideal. Or combine equal parts of humus, loam, sand and leaf mold. Charcoal chips will help keep the soil fresh.

Feed ferns a diluted solution of fish emulsion or other natural plant food. A monthly feeding is advisable from April to September, especially for the Boston fern. Thereafter, feed ferns every other month.

For centuries ferns have brought elegance indoors. With attention to their basic needs, their grace and beauty can bring a fresh, new look to the setting of your choice.

Horticulturists help with plant problem

Michigan State University Extensions specialists constantly are bombarded with questions about plants, gardens and lawns and through this column, hope to answer some of the more timely queries about houseplants, outdoor gardening, landscaping and related topics.

Q: Will softened water hurt my houseplants?

A: The main problem with softened water and houseplants occurs when a home water softening unit malfunctions and your plants get a toxic dose of salt. If you have a home water softener, it might be a good idea to use nonsoftened water for your plants. City-softened water rarely poses problems to houseplants.

Q: How do I care for the amaryllis I got for Christmas?

A: Pot it so that two-thirds of the bulb is exposed above the soil. Place it in a sunny window and water it whenever the soil surface begins to dry. After the bloom fades, cut off the flower stalk and continue to care

Creeper is hairy

Pilea nummularifolia, or Creeping Pilea, goes by the name Creeping Charlie in the greenhouse, but it is no relative to the garden weed of the same name.

A native of Latin America, found from the West Indies to Peru, this member of the Pilea family is a creeping plant with small, round, slightly hairy leaves.

Good for a terrarium of hanging pot, plant it in a humus soil made up of equal parts loam, sand, peat and leaf mold, and water whenever the soil surface begins to dry out.

Place it where it will receive some bright light, but no direct sunlight. A humidity of at least 30 percent is advised.

Propagation is by cuttings rooted in moist sand or vermiculite. Because creeping stems root easily at each node, propagation is not difficult.

for the leaves. Foliage growth is necessary to build up the bulb for next season's growth.

You can place the potted bulb outdoors in the summer. Bring it inside again before frost, place it in a cool spot and gradually withhold water. The leaves will turn yellow and dry as the bulb goes dormant. Allow it to dry thoroughly. After at least a 60-day rest period, start watering it and place it in a brightly lighted spot. Growth will resume in about two weeks, and flowering will occur two-four weeks after that.

Q: Can I keep the bulbs I forced and plant them outdoors?

A: You can, but you probably won't be too pleased with the results. Most bulbs used for forcing do not survive outdoors.

Q: I have a hanging basket in my window. The leaves on the side near the window are turning black. What's the matter with it?

A: It sounds as if the plant is too close to the cold glass. Move it back so it doesn't touch the window, and avoid closing it behind drapes or curtains at night. Plants need as much light as they can get at this time of year, but few can tolerate the low temperatures near a window in winter.

Q: A year ago I received a wine bottle terrarium made into a lamp. Recently the soil has gotten all moldy. What can I do about it?

A: Mold or algae in a terrarium is a sign it's been kept too moist. About all you can do now is remove the plants, soil and drainage material, sterilize the container with chlorine bleach, and start over with sterile soil and new plants. Water very little and open up the container whenever moisture starts to accumulate on the glass.

Q: My cat likes to chew on my plants. I worry sometimes that he's going to eat something that will make him sick. Are there any common houseplants that will hurt him?

A: A common plant known to be fatal to cats that eat it is the philodendron. Dumbcane is another to keep out of kitty's reach.

At the Cranbrook Institute

Smithsonian exhibit shows off 'our' gems

Marie Antoinette's earrings, Empress Marie-Louise's diamond necklace and Catherine the Great's Chalice will be some of the treasures featured in the new Smithsonian exhibition "Fit for a Queen: The National Gem Collection".

Touring with The Smithsonian National Associate Program and cosponsored by Cranbrook Educational Community the exhibition will be on view at Ecology Hall, Cranbrook Institute of Science from Feb. 14, 15 and 16. Special Institute hours on Feb. 14 and 15 will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The exhibition will include a diamond necklace, gift to Empress

Marie-Louise by Napoleon; a topaz, the largest faceted stone in the world; a lapis lazuli necklace, gift to Mrs. Joseph J. Sisco, wife of the U.S. Under Secretary of State, by Mrs. Anwar Sadat, wife of the president of Egypt; an intricately carved jadeite vase; and the Royal Order of the Golden Fleece and the Serbian Order of the White Eagle, two jewel-encrusted medals.

Many of the pieces are surrounded by tales of romance and intrigue. The gold chalice was commissioned by Catherine the Great in 1791 to honor the memory of her dead lover, the Russian statesman Gregori Potemkin. The bowl and base of the chalice are set with eight cameos and intaglios in various hardstones. The chalice also is imbedded with 1,300 large diamonds and innumerable smaller ones, derived from the Empress' private collection.

Among the last gifts of Louis XVI to Marie Antoinette was the pair of diamond earrings featured in the exhibition. Marie Antoinette brought along these earrings when she fled from Paris during the French Revolution. Based on the value of the earrings alone, the Royal Family could have lived quite comfortably, had the escape plans succeeded. The earrings then passed through the Youssouff family, were purchased by Cartier Ltd., and were eventually donated to the Smithsonian by Eleanor Chase Barzin of Paris.

Many of the pieces in the exhibition are housed and displayed in the Hall of Gems in the National Museum of Natural History. The display portion of the collection at the Institution consists of more than 1,000 items selected to illustrate the various kinds of gems and to show how their beauty is enhanced by cutting and polishing.

Paul E. Desautels, curator of the gem and mineral collection in the Smithsonian's Natural History Museum, will lecture on the collection and the exhibition.

Sponsored by the National Associate Program, the exhibition "Fit for a Queen" is part of a series of Smithsonian events in Detroit. Other Smithsonian activities include an exhibit of nature photography at Cranbrook Institute of Science and concerts by the Smithsonian Chamber Players at The Detroit Institute of Arts.

Lens catches art in nature

"Art In Nature", an exhibition of nature photography, will be presented by the Smithsonian Institution's National Associate Program in cosponsorship with Cranbrook Educational Community.

Based on photographs by Kjell B. Sandved, photographer and producer of biological films at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History, the exhibition will be in the front lobby of Cranbrook Institute of Science Feb. 18-28.

"Art In Nature" reveals views of nature usually not seen by the naked eye, such as the rich pageantry of color in a butterfly wing or the delicately sculptured whorls of a seashell.

Sandved focuses on both the minutiae and the grand schemes of nature. His photographs cover a natural spectrum, ranging from leopard seals feeding on emperor penguins to the unfolding hind wings of a geometrid moth.

Noted scientist and author Isaac Asimov of Sandved's artistry said: "I had expected something unusual, but I must admit that in my wildest dreams I had not counted on seeing anything so entirely fascinating and absorbing as that which you had produced."

Sandved has worked at the Smithsonian for 17 years, and has produced motion pictures on natural history subjects as well as photographs. His works on insect behavior, filmed in the Galapagos Islands, Columbia, Venezuela and other parts of the world, have been praised by scientists and have made him one of America's leading specialists in this field.

A frequent contributor to "Smithsonian", "National Geographic", "Life" and "Natural History" magazines, Sandved also has published two books on shells and butterflies.

Sponsored by the National Associate Program, "Art In Nature" is part of a series of Smithsonian events in Detroit. Other Smithsonian activities include a gem exhibit at Cranbrook Institute of Science, an exhibit of "Artists And Their Studios" at The Detroit Institute of Arts and concerts by the Smithsonian Chamber Players at The Detroit Institute of Arts.

Bonstelle revives Rogers and Hart play, 'Pal Joey'

"Pal Joey", the first anti-hero in an American musical, will again make his bow on the stage in the Bonstelle Theatre's revival of the Rogers and Hart classic.

The tuneful show, which includes such popular songs as "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered" and "I Could Write a Book", opens Feb. 4 and runs weekends through Feb. 20. Performances are at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday with two matinees scheduled for 2:30, Feb. 13 and 20.

When "Pal Joey" premiered on Broadway in 1940, "it seemed virtually revolutionary in its toughness and scorn for musical-comedy sentimentality," theatre critic Richard Watts Jr. wrote.

The book by John O'Hara, lifted from his hilarious New Yorker magazine sketches about a nightclub hoffer, tells of the rise and fall of Joey Evans, a small-time entertainer who catches the eye and fancy of a Chicago socialite. A satirical exploration of nightclubs in the 1930s, it is "done with such zest and scornful relish that it achieves genuine power," Watts said.

Coupled with some of Lorenz Hart's wittiest lyrics, and one of Richard Rodgers' most winning scores, "Pal Joey" remains "an irresistible delight," according to Time magazine.

In the title role is David Brian Szabla of Dearborn, with Sandra McAleer of Redford portraying the vampish Vera Simpson, Laurie Meeker of Redford playing Linda English, and Linda Hubbard to Detroit playing Gladys. Others in the cast include Kay L. Grismer of Livonia, Don Little of Troy, Douglas W. Barns of Dearborn, Kevin J. McGee of Livonia and Paul Prappas of Birmingham.

The production is directed by Russell Smith, with musical direction by James Hohmeyer, choreography by Nira Pullin, costumes by Susan Lambeth and set design by Norman Hamlin.

Reserved seats are $3.50 on sale at the Wayne State University Box Office, Hilberry Theatre at Cass and Hancock, Detroit 48202. For telephone reservations, call 577-2960.

Pillow Dance Festival.

Campanella will make a return engagement with the symphony for a pair of 8:30 p.m. concerts Thursday and Friday evenings.

The young musician, who last appeared with the orchestra in 1974, will perform Ravel's Concerto for the Left Hand in a concert devoted entirely to the music of Ravel and conducted by DSO music director Aldo Ceccato.

The other works to be played by the orchestra include the "Pavane pour une infante defunte", "La Valse" and the famous choreographic poem "Bolero".

Friday evening's concert will be the third of this season's Zodiac series and includes a special 7:30 p.m. pre-concert prelude of Campanella in a short piano recital. The musician will play three sonatas of Domenico Scarlatti, three studies from Muzio Clementi's "Gradus ad Parnassum", Franz Liszt's concert paraphrase of the "Spinning Chorus" from Wagner's opera "Der fliegende Hollaender" and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody.

Campanella was born in Naples in 1947 and studied at the Conservatorio di San Pietro a Majella. In 1966 he was the youngest winner of the Alfredo Casella International Piano Competition of the Accademia Musicale Napolitana, and since then has concertized throughout Europe and the United States.

Tickets for the four concerts are available at the Ford Auditorium Box Office, with a limited number of tickets for students and senior citizens available from 8 p.m. Thursday evening.

Recorded information on all forthcoming DSO concerts is available 24 hours a day at 961-1017.

Elusive ball

Judging from Pat Bledsoe's face (44), the collision with an unidentified Taylor Truman cager hurt. Though Bledsoe had released the ball, he was awarded a foul for the Truman player's infraction.

There were plenty of fouls shots, in fact, with the exception of one basket, that's all either team sank for the final three minutes of the game that went to Truman.

Bob Visser is in one of those explicable writing moods. And the recipient of his soon-to-be, if not already written, letter is the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

The MHSAA is the august body that determines the fate and fortunes of high school athletics in this state. And, it also has a lot to do where prep basketball teams will play during the district, regional and state tournaments.

It is to this matter that Visser will address his letter. He says that he will ask Al Bush, the director of MHSAA, to explain "an oversight."

"We're scheduled to play in the district playoffs at Churchill," Visser said, "and, though it doesn't look as if we will win over there, if we should then there'll be a problem."

"We're scheduled to host a regional tournament," Visser continued. "If we should win the district, we won't be playing in our own regional — we'll be going to Ypsilanti."

That the first time I've ever heard of anything like that. I don't know if it's an oversight by the MHSAA, or it's intentional but, since we're hosting a regional, I feel we should be at our own regional.

"And what about our game officials, the statisticians, where would they stay? Would they be assigned to Franklin? Visser asked.

Though Franklin is having its problems on the hardwood this season — the Patriots are 1-3 in the Northwest Suburban — they've been a recent threat in post-season playoffs. In fact, Visser's teams have won three out of the last four Class A district championships they've played in."

But, as the veteran coach says, it's going to be rough to win the title at Churchill this year.

And, there appears to be a shake-up in the future lineups of the Northwest Suburban and Suburban 8 Conference leagues. The Northwest has been looking for teams to fill its ranks ever since the defections of Birmingham Groves and Oak Park.

They just may have found a sixth member in Redford Union, a team that is struggling in the tough Suburban 8 Conference.

Redford Union school officials have expressed reservations about remaining in the Suburban 8 "because of the rising costs of transportation." They feel that the Northwest which includes John

If Livonia Franklin, the defending Northwest Suburban Conference basketball champ, has any plans to retain its crown it better unveil them Friday at Thurston.

Coach Bob Visser's Patriots sank deeper in the league standings last week as they fell 56-42 to Garden City East. The loss dropped Franklin (1-3) three games off the pace set by Westland John Glenn (4-0).

"Despite our league record, I'm not discouraged," Visser said. "We have some of our injured players back in the line-up and if we can generate some offense, we're still going to make a run for it in the second half."

Franklin's lone league victory was at the expense of Thurston and that was on a last second on-the-buzzer shot by John Zannis whose basket gave the Patriots a 56-54 victory. The Redford quintet will

Truman trips Wayne

Zebras slip to 6th place

Taylor Truman Coach Frank Plecas lost a coat-tossing battle with the refs but his team won the sar 55-52 over Wayne Memorial Friday night.

The loss buried Wayne (3-4), in sixth place in the Great Lakes 8 basketball conference and upped the Truman record to 4-3, good for a third place tie with Wyandotte and Lincoln Park.

Wayne Coach Bill Hawley called the defeat "disheartening, because I felt we had been some of our best ball these past two weeks."

The coat-tossing incident occurred in the fourth period, a period marred by a rash of personal and technical fouls. There was only one basket in that period. That basket was made by Truman's Bruce Eccleton.

Plecas was slapped with a technical foul.

It was the first time that Hawley had ever lost to a Truman cage team.

Wayne had ample opportunities to put the game away, despite trailing 13-6 after the first eight minutes of the contest.

Wayne couldn't buy a bucket early in the game as Truman built up a 11-2 lead before Bill Crews brought the Zebras to life. Crews pumped in 12 of his game high 20 points in the second period to lead Wayne within two points of catching their visitors at halftime (32-30).

Then, Tim Couch connected on his first three shots of the third period which staked Wayne to an 18-9 period and the lead, 48-41, going into the final eight minutes.

Truman kept to its zone defense in the last period and Wayne attempted to get the high percentage shot, resulting in a stall. However, Truman made the most of its free throws, scoring on 12 of 14 chances in the last period while Wayne made four of six.

Along with Crews and Couch, who had 10 points, Jim Lentine also hit in double figures for the Zebras. Lentine made six from the field and four of eight at the foul line for 10.

Mark Polenz led Truman's attack with 15.

Earlier in the week Wayne turned back Riverview 74-64 to pick up its third league victory. The Zebras took command in the second period and erased a 17-12 deficit to a 30-27 halftime advantage.

The local quintet then went on to outscore their rivals 17-13 and 27-14 in the final two periods.

Crews' 15 points stood up as the evening high, while Mike Singleton and Bill Phillips split 22 points between them.

One of the reasons for Wayne's success on defense was the performance of Mike Plungis who held Riverview's 6-7 center Keith Mitchell to seven points.

Couch appears well on his way to setting a Great Lakes 8 Conference free-throw shooting record. He has successfully converted 18 straight in the league and has canned 24 in a row since last December.

We think it's a record," Hawley said. "We're checking it out for confirmation."

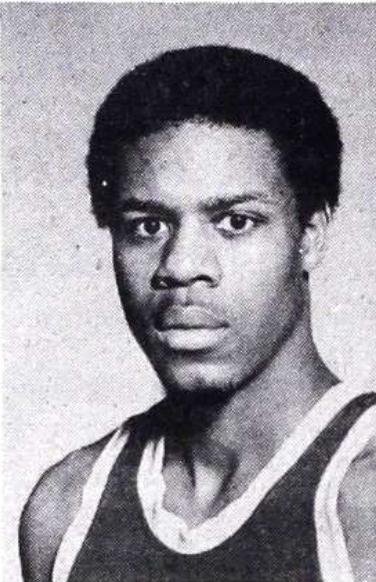

Wayne begins the second round of league play Friday night at Fordson.

Glenn '5' resumes Northwest title chase at GC East

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

After their terrifying experience at Bloomfield Hills Lahser last Friday, Westland John Glenn will be happy to get back to the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball campaign.

And Coach Gordie Davis will also be happy to get back into his lineup Dan Diadun, the Rockets' leading scorer and rebounder.

Diadun injured his left ankle in practice last week and wasn't available for services against Lahser. Though Davis is quick to point out after his team's 70-45 defeat at the hands of the Bloomfield Hills quintet, "Dan wouldn't have change the outcome of the game."

"It would have been a little closer than it was," Davis added, "but Lahser is one of the finest teams in the state. They have size: 6-6, 6-6, 6-4 in the front line and they were just too big for us to handle."

Glenn fell behind 18-9 after the first eight minutes and for all purposes were out of the game at halftime when Lahser held a 21 point lead, 36-15.

Lahser kept the 21-point gap (49-28) for three periods, handing the Westlanders third setback in 13 starts.

Lahser's 6-6 Dave Bennett caused most of the Rocket headaches as he drilled in 13 from the field and sank five free throws for 31 points, the game's high.

Glenn had only one player in double figures. Tom Jurewicz pumped in 11.

Glenn hopes to pick up where it left off in the conference where it is seated atop of the league with a perfect 4-0 record. Garden City East will get the first shot of the second round at the league-leaders. The two commence shooting Friday night at East High.

Donkey cage show at Cherry Hill

There will be plenty of laughs for the entire family when the "craziest basketball on earth" comes to Cherry Hill High School.

Cherry Hill will host the Shaw Bros. "donkey cage team" on Wed., Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m. It's basketball from the back of a donkey.

The teams will be made up of the Cherry Hill varsity club and the school faculty.

Advance tickets are available at the Cherry Hill High School Student Activities Office and proceeds will help finance the yearbook.

Paciocco wins DCC crown

Glenn grappler is lone area champ

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Nick Paciocco usually doesn't find himself in the spotlight. The modest 128-pound Westland John Glenn wrestler, who was an All-Area selection a year ago, "just does his job every time he's out there."

But, "doing the job" earned

NICK PACIOCCO
Champ at 128

Paciocco an extended ovation Saturday night at the prestigious Detroit Catholic Central Wrestling Invitational.

Paciocco reached the finals of the 128-pound class where he found a tough Chuck Joseph of Temperance Bedford waiting for him. The Glenn grappler worked his way to a close but gratifying 3-2 victory which gave him a first place cup and the applause of some 1,200 fans who had jammed the small gym.

Paciocco was the only wrestler from the two Wayne-Westland Community School District high schools - Wayne Memorial and John Glenn - to wind up on the first place dias.

"He did a fine job," said Glenn Coach Bob Lusk. "The final match was one of the most outstanding matches of the evening. The fans gave both wrestlers an extended ovation."

Glenn, which finished sixth overall, also had two runners-up. Jerry Hensley, a 114-pounder who also earned an all-Area consideration a year ago, lost a cliffhanging 2-1 decision to Mike Hindmarsh, a junior from Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Hensley's teammate, Jim Meyer, battled his way to the finals of the 180-pound class where he met and was defeated by Bedford's Bill Salisbury by a major 14-5 decision.

Wayne, which finished ahead of its counter-parts from Glenn - the "Wolfpack" was fourth behind Bedford (147), Catholic Central (112½) and Adrian (104½) - came away with six medalists.

One of the surprises of the meet was Wayne heavyweight Kevin Wilson's performance. The unheralded wrestler earned a silver medal by finishing second to Flint Northwestern's Bill Mills who strolled off the mats with the gold via and 8-1 decision.

Wayne earned two third place medals with Randy Pittman (128) and Chris Leverenz (180) while it was fourth with Tim Clark at 134. Corry Bachus (140) and brother Chris (147) finished fifth in the 140 and 147 pound classes, respectively, while Bo Wanshon received a sixth at 121.

"This year's tournament was one of the smoothest," said DCC Coach Mike Rodriguez. "We had excellent turnout, around 1,200 fans which is one of the largest ever."

The Outstanding Wrestler's Award went to Paul Neumann of Swartz Creek who upset Catholic Central's state champ, 147 pounder-Neimr Nadhir.

Neumann "cradled past" his rival, 6-1.

The Most Falls Award went to Bill Rugenstein of Bay City Western who pinned all three of his opponents in an elapsed time of 13:24.

Dolphin tankers back in the pool

After nearly a month layoff, the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club resumes Suburban Winter Conference action Saturday against Crestwood as the conference launches the second half of the 1976-77 season.

The Dolphins, winners of four in a row before drawing a bye January 15, defeated Crestwood in an earlier meeting, 283 - 183.

Saturday's encounter will be the final one of the regular conference season in which Dolphin swimmers who will compete for their respective junior high schools may swim.

Under Michigan scholastic regulations boys and girls may not participate for school and club teams at the same time.

Coach Jim Lawrence is looking for the great depth of the Dolphin roster to fill any void left by junior high swimmers. Other Wayne coaches are Dirk Johnston and Larry Batterson.

The Suburban Swim Conference championship meet is slated for April 3, after the completion of the junior high and high school seasons - making all swimmers eligible for the finals. The league championship is determined by a combined total of points earned in dual-meet and finals competition.

Stage set for Romulus invitational

Adrian, the defending champ, will be the team to beat at the fourth annual Romulus Wrestling Invitational.

The tournament, scheduled for noon Saturday, will bring together teams from Fenton, Trenton, Clawson, Clintondale, Wayne Memorial as well as Adrian and host Romulus.

"Adrian recently finished ahead of Wayne at the Detroit Catholic Central Tournament," said Vern Logan, Romulus High coach. "I would have to say they'll have an edge over Wayne."

"But it's going to be a dogfight all the way," Logan added.

Fans can expect to folk out 50 cents (students) and 75 cents (adults) for the preliminary round. It'll cost 25 cents more to attend the finals.

Meanwhile, an injury-plagued Romulus lineup was no match for Belleville which crushed its area rival 48-9 in their confrontation last week.

Prep swim listing

If the area's swim listing is any indication of what the competition will be like at the annual Western Wayne Swim & Diving Invitational next month, most records should fall.

Prep swimmers in the area have a "hot peace" this season as indicated by the listing compiled by Cherry Hill Coach Jerry Pawloski.

The WW, scheduled for next month, is one of the top invitational in the area. It lures teams covered by The Associated Newspapers.

In order to get a performance listed on the chart, please contact Coach Pawloski at PA 2-5900.

Belleville crushes RU wrestlers

Belleville came one victory closer to its first Suburban 8 Conference wrestling championship as Coach Gerald Malecek's Tigers crushed Redford Union 53-12.

The victory stretched Belleville's streak to five in the league and sets up a showdown with Trenton, also undefeated, a week from Thursday.

Belleville takes an 8-2 overall record into Thursday's league match with Allen Park.

Close losses 'kill' Belleville

Niemi: 'We still hold key to cage title'

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Though undefeated Plymouth Salem is in command of the Suburban 8 Conference, Belleville Coach Tom Niemi sees his team as "one that will at least determine who will win the cage title this season."

Handcuffed with their fourth league loss — a close 63-60 decision at Dearborn Friday night, Belleville entertains Allen Park Friday night as the second round of league competition begins.

"It's no secret that we would need a miracle to catch Salem," Niemi said. "They're definitely in command, however, the race is so tight that I feel we may at least help determine which teams will eventually win it."

With sophomore Kelvin Patterson pumping in 11 of his 23 points,

Body language

It doesn't take much to understand what Wayne's Jim Lentine (14) is doing here. The senior guard is heading up for a lay-up, one of three baskets he scored against a determined Taylor Truman team

Friday night. Wayne blew a 7-point third period lead and dropped a 55-52 decision to their league rivals. That's Mike Plungis (42) standing by for the rebound.

Glenn, Franklin, Garden City East and North Farmington is "closer to home."

Meanwhile, Romulus is still looking for a league to call its "home." The sophomore Metro-West Conference, (Oak Park, Dearborn Heights, Ann Arbor, Woodhaven and Clarenceville) has considered Romulus' application a couple of times by officials have turned "thumbs down."

Wonder why...

Finally, the Wayne Community Center will get a display case for its trophies thanks to the City Council.

The council recently approved a bid for the construction of the case which will house the championship trophies.

It'll cost a little more than $1,000 — that should be enough room, wouldn't you say?

'Awesome' Dearborn rips Belleville swimming team

Dearborn, the defending Class A state champ and the only champ in the five-year history of the Suburban 8 Conference, overwhelmed Belleville 54-29 last Thursday.

Belleville avoided being shutout from first places thanks to Howard Renton who turned in a winning 5:10.7 for the 500-yard freestyle.

Renton led teammate Joe Thomas to the wire in the event.

The loss left Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers with an 0-2 conference record. They're 8-2 over-all on the season.

"We didn't swim well against them," Vicchy commented. "I think it's because our kids are just awed by the name, Dearborn, and they go into the meet with a defeatist attitude."

Stage is set for Invitational

Belleville leaped to a 21-11 advantage over the host, Dearborn. However, the Pioneers came back to cut into a 21-24 halftime deficit by outscoring their visitors 23-14 in the third period.

Coach Jim VanderHull's Pioneers hit on 10 of 14 shots in the third period.

Belleville kept it close in the last eight minutes thanks to Kevin Barnes who drilled in all six of his points in that period.

"I thought we played well in that first period," Niemi said, "and overall we looked pretty good. But Dearborn got hot in the third period while we took some high percentage shots that didn't drop in."

Patterson, who shared individual scoring honors with Dearborn's Pat Rombach, each with 23, also nailed down 14 rebounds. Teammate Roy Rutherford snared 12 caroms.

Belleville had the edge 46-39 on the boards but Dearborn canned 21 of 28 free throws as compared to Belleville's 14 to 21. Belleville also shot 33 percent (23 of 69) from the field. The Pioneers made 21 of 55 for 38 percent.

Rutherford, who finished with 15 points, was the only Belleville player in two figures. Rombach led a balanced attack which included double figures from Jim Heller (14) and Bill Stucky (10).

Belleville got off to a slow start against Adrian and dropped another three-pointer, 67-64, earlier in the week. Trailing all the way after falling behind 16-7 after the first eight minutes, the Tigers rallied to within three, 30-27, at halftime.

But Adrian forward Mike Harvey sparked a third period surge which lifted the hosts to a nine point lead, 48-40, and they managed to hold off the Tigers and rest of the way.

Patterson again led Belleville scorers with 23 while Barnes counted 11. Harvey's 26 points topped all scorers.

The Tigers picked up 12 of 25 from the free throw line as compared to Adrian's 23 of 33 effort and the winners also capitalized in 22 of 46 from the field for a hefty 48 percent. Belleville sank 26 of 74 for 35 percent from the field.

Cherry Hill rolls, rolls, rolls

Taylor Kennedy was no match for Cherry Hill, the defending Tri-River Conference swim co-champs.

Undefeated in the league, Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans overwhelmed their rivals 120-50 last Thursday. The champs swept nine out of a possible 11 first places.

"We gave some of our younger swimmers an opportunity to compete in this one," Pawloski said. "I feel our big test will come Saturday when we swim out of the league rival Fenton, one of the top Class B teams in the state."

However, prior to the Saturday engagement, Cherry Hill has to contend with league rival Garden City West at home 4 p.m. on Thursday.

Stop sign

Looking for a way to get rid of the ball is Wayne Memorial's Bill Crews (24) who is confronted by a Taylor Truman defender in Friday night's Great Lakes 8 Conference confrontation. Crews scored in double figures but it wasn't enough as the visiting Truman contingent posted their first cage victory ever over Wayne.

AUTO FACTS

By Chester Kosin

Night driving is the most common of all difficult driving situations. It is three times more dangerous than daytime driving. First of all, you can not see as well at night. Further, one driver in five has a vision defect, ranging from impaired depth perception to night blindness. Moreover, drivers are generally more tired at night, and there are more drunken drivers at that time. A recent five state survey found that between 7 p.m. and 4 a.m. one out of every 25 drivers was inebriated.

Keep your car in safe condition at all times with quality parts and accessories from KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! We specialize in foreign and domestic auto parts of all kinds; we also have a complete inventory of automotive tools. Our full machine shop service is available for turning brake drums, grinding valves, and rebuilding engines. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. Bank Americard and Master Charge are honored. KOSIN'S friendly staff will be happy to help you select the parts and tools you need for your particular car.

INTRODUCING THE NEW EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.
It can provide up to $8100 for an education.

WHAT IS THE BASIC IDEA OF THE NEW EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM?
Today's Army is dedicated to providing young people every possible opportunity, both in the service and after. Under the new Educational Assistance Program, a young man or woman looking ahead to college or vocational-technical school can accumulate a remarkable "nest-egg". The individual can elect to save from $50 to $75 a month during active Army service for an educational future—and the contribution will be matched two dollars for every one. This means a young man or woman saving the maximum can come out of the Army with as much as $8100 in an educational fund.

I'M DIFFERENT and my people have been happy with me...but...now they have to move, so won't you come see if you would like me too? I have 3 bedrooms, you'll love my big kitchen-dining area, oak floor in living room, play games in basmt and pull your cars in my att. garage. I have more than one bath, large closets, storage space to please and my grounds are wooded and in the country. They call me No. 29...will you call me yours? Mid $50's.

I WANT TO GO TOO, but that's impossible. I'm too young to stay alone (about 3 years old) so will you look at me soon? I was designed by my owner to compliment my lake lot. I have lots of glass doorwalls to view the water and enjoy the patio & deck. My garage is attached and I'm cedar sided. Call Stinehours to see me...I'm No. 60.

WE NEED HOMES TO SELL! THE ADVANTAGES OF LISTING WITH US:

1. Full time salespeople
2. Complete knowledge of area

I'M ONLY 1 MILLION YEARS OLD but just as good as new and still waiting for someone to buy me and build a house. I'm approximately 1 acre with city water and gas. No. 46

I DON'T LIKE TO BRAG, but I am quite a prestigious home in a very nice neighborhood of much higher-priced homes. I am loaded with goodies-kit, with built-ins; formal dining room with doorwall to patio deck; 1 3/4 baths; att. gar.; central air; gas incinerator; gas grill; family room w-fireplace. I'm reasonable and my heating bills are economical. Ask to see me without delay. I'm No. 77

I'LL SURPRISE YOU! I'm bigger than you think. I can accommodate a large family or two small families. I have 2 bedrooms, & bath up and down. Down, I also have a remodeled kit., dining room, den and large liv. room. I also have a full basement with a new furnace-central air, air-cleaner & humidifier, which will allow you to live comfortably on BELLEVILLE LAKE. My mortgage can be assumed, too. I am a terrific investment. Don't wait. Call for an appointment to see me today. My No. is 56.

I CAN S-A-V-E YOU MONEY! 0-DOWN. I offer 4 bdrms. (2 up & 2 down); remodeled kit, w-dark wood cabinets; large utility and nearly new double garage. I am located on a corner lot with paved roads and all utilities with NO assessments. I am a neat & clean alum. home for only $22,500. Come and see me. I'm No. 66

MY FAMILY HAS LEFT ME for a warmer climate and I can't understand why! I'm warm as toast. I am located on an acre of land, have all utilities, a paved road, a 2 1/2-car gar., and large storage bldg. I am ready for occupancy with an occupancy permit from the City of Romulus. My owner is offering land contract terms and I'm priced at $24,500-No. 116

I'M LITTLE, BUT my bedrooms, closets & kitchen are BIG! I have 914 sq. ft., including 2 bdrms., living room and kitchen with utility area. I'm on a corner lot with all utilities, a garage. My owners want to leave me. Won't you make me happy? I'm only $25,400 and my No. is 37

I WANT TO GO TOO, but that's impossible. I'm too young to stay alone (about 3 years old) so will you look at me soon? I was designed by my owner to compliment my lake lot. I have lots of glass doorwalls to view the water and enjoy the patio & deck. My garage is attached and I'm cedar sided. Call Stinehours to see me...I'm No. 60

I'M SETTING HERE WAITING for you to put a mobile home or cabin on me among the trees. I can be reached by paved road all year. I am up north where all the snow-mobilers and deer hunters & fishermen come. Won't you too? I only cost $2,750, and you can have me with small down payment. No. 81

PLEASE MAKE ME HAPPY and build a house on me...I'm a vacant acre in nice country area in Van Buren Twp. and have water and gas avail. My No. is 69 until you buy me and give me a house number.

MAKE ME HAPPY AGAIN. I'm lonesome for a family to love me. I've so much to offer. 3 BR/5, family room, full basmt, 2 1/2 car garage, fenced back yard with large patio, central air, gas F-A heat & carpeting. No. 64 - $30,900.

MY OWNER HAS TO MOVE. They built a home "down South". I'm all brick with 3 bdrms., 1 1/2 baths, att. garage, family room and open-flr kit. & living room. Your family will love me and my country location with over 1 1/2 acres. Please come to see me. I'm No. 124.

I DON'T WANT TO BE ALONE! My family left me for a large farm and I'm so lonesome on 2 1/2 acres with only my new furnace to keep my 5 rooms warm. I shouldn't be lonely long as I'm priced to sell quick - $21,000. A full deck-No. 52.

HELP! I NEED SOMEONE to take care of my aches & pains. Just a few repairs will start me off. I come equipped with approximately 2.9 acres of land with large frontage. I have 2 bedrooms, living room & kitchen. No. 84 P.S. I've got a LOW PRICE!

I PROMISE YOU good returns on your money if you buy me! I have a nice main level apt. for you and a rental apt. up so that I don't cost you so much every month...don't pass me by if you need more room through...I can house a big family! I have a basement too. No. 25 is my number. I live in the city.

I'VE GOT A LOT OF GOOD YEARS LEFT and your family could spend them with me and enjoy living on Belleville Lake. I offer you 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, dining room, pretty kitchen, sewing room and att. garage. At $38,900. I think you should come see me. No. 75

I'M ALL DRESSED UP waiting for you to come see me. You may not recognize it from driving by so why not set an apt. to make a visit? I have a stone fireplace in my family room, 3 bedrooms
